Standard Oil Buys Central Bus Terminal

Will Erect Combined Gas Station and Bus Terminal at West Shore Railroad and Maintain Terminal—Opposition to Sunday Movies Develops Before Aldermen—Other Matters.

The Standard Oil Company which has purchased the central bus terminal property between Railroad avenue and Thomas street, will erect a modern gas station and bus terminal on the property, and work will be started at once as the common council Tuesday evening adopted a resolution waiving the sixty days' clause in the city's lease with the Cornell estate.

The matter was brought to the attention of the common council by County Attorney John W. Eckert, who appeared in behalf of Judge A. T. Clearwater, counsel for the Standard Oil Company and who is confined to his home on Albany avenue with a serious illness. Mr. Eckert called attention to the fact that the common council had leased the large vacant lot from the Cornell estate for bus terminal purposes for the past three years at a rental of $600 a year.

This lease contained a clause giving the Cornell estate the privilege of cancelling the lease on sixty days' notice in case the property was sold. This clause Mr. Eckert asked the council to waive so that the work of erecting the combined gas station and bus terminal could proceed at once. In consideration of waiving the clause the city would be allowed the use of the property for sixty days, or until August 1, rent free, a saving to the city of $100.

Terminal With Proper Facilities.

Mr. Eckert outlined the plans of the Standard Oil Company to the council, stating that a gas station would be erected adequate in size for terminal purposes with a waiting room for bus patrons together with toilet facilities. There is no waiting room now and no toilet facilities. He said that as long as the bus lines patronize the gas station the Standard Oil Company would maintain terminal facilities. "We feel we are doing something of value to the city by erecting a bus terminal," said Mr. Eckert, and that the facilities offered the busses would prove of benefit to all who used the terminal.

Mr. Eckert stated that the Standard Oil Company wanted the business of the bus lines, which was the reason why it was erecting this gas station. He had prepared a resolution covering the request he had made that the city waive the sixty day clause, which was read for the information of the aldermen.

The resolution was then sponsored by Alderman Haines of the Second ward, in which the terminal is located, and seconded by Alderman Clare of the Eighth ward. Alderman Clare said in seconding the resolution that judging from the gas stations already erected in the city by the Standard Oil Company that the proposed station and terminal would be a credit to that section of the city.

Mayor Wants City Reimbursed.

Mayor Block, who was present at the meeting, was asked by some of the aldermen what he thought of the matter and said that he thought it a very fair proposition. He suggested that the entire matter be referred to the ways and means committee and the corporation counsel with power, as he believed that the city would be reimbursed at least $300 for the money it had expended in grading the grounds.

The resolution was then voted on and carried unanimously. Mr. Eckert thanked the common council for action and stated that the Standard Oil Company would stand ready to cooperate with the city at all time on matters connected with the bus terminal which would be maintained without any charge to the city.

Alderman Radel Broke Leg.

All of the aldermen were present at the meeting Tuesday with the exception of Aldermen Radel, O'Reilly and Flannery. President Dempsey stated that Alderman Radel of the Seventh ward had had the misfortune to break his leg that afternoon while at work on the shipyard where he was employed.

The Fire Alarm System.

City Clerk A. A. Styles read a communication from the board of fire commissioners in reference to the resolution offered by Alderman O'Reilly that the fire alarm system be changed so that instead of bell alarms, in the future all alarms be turned in from the boxes be "gongs" and stating that the board would be represented at the meeting to discuss the matter. However, there were none of the fire commissioners present and the communication was filed.

Opposed to Sunday Movies.

A letter to the common council from the R-G-R store, which was printed in The Freeman at the time it was written, and which requested the council to disregard the petition purporting to be signed by a majority of the employees of the big store favoring Sunday movies as it did not express the correct sentiment of the employees of the store, was referred to the laws and rules committee.

Communications opposing Sunday movies were also read and referred to the laws and rules committee.

Hospital Drive Begins Saturday

Campaign Organized Along Military Lines and Active Work Will Begin Everywhere at One Time—Saugerties Business Concerns Make Advance Subscriptions.

Dr. George F. Chandler, executive chairman of the $300,000 campaign for the Kingston City Hospital, emphasized this morning the fact that the actual fund raising of the campaign will not begin until after the opening dinner, which is to be held next Friday evening in the Kingston Armory. "This applies to the out of town forces," he said, "as well as to the local Kingston organization; we have organized along military lines and we are going to start the whole organization going all at one time after the Friday dinner. At that time, final instructions will be given to the workers and everything will be in readiness for a successful campaign."

Dr. Chandler's statement was due, he said, to questions asked by a number of Allied Town captains on account of the fact that a considerable sum of money has been raised in Saugerties. This money, he said, has been in the form of advance subscriptions from a few business concerns. The four teams of workers in Saugerties are waiting to begin the general canvass at the same time as the other teams.

The opening dinner on Friday night is to be an organization dinner, and not for reporting subscriptions. The first reports of subscriptions are to be made by the local teams at a luncheon Monday noon and by the Allied Town teams at a luncheon Wednesday noon.

Dry Act Applies To Porto Rico

Rules United States Circuit Court of Appeals in Upholding Sentence Imposed Upon Manuel Ramos—Other Decisions.

Boston, June 2.—The National Prohibition Act applies to Porto Rico.

This was the ruling of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals in a decision handed down today in upholding a fine and sentence imposed on Manuel Ramos for liquor law violations.

Porto Rico is under the jurisdiction of the circuit court sitting here.

Ramos was sentenced to serve ninety days in jail and to pay a fine of $300 by the Federal District Court of Porto Rico. He had been found guilty of possessing liquor and of selling it.

This was in 1925 and his attorney claimed that Congress had granted the island local option and that his client was guiltless.

The Circuit Court of Appeals today also handed down a decision in another unusual liquor case. Customs officers last April seized the automobile of John S. Cahill, No. 10 High land street, Lawrence, at Ansel because, they asserted, it contained 26 cases of gin, the duty on which, they charged, had not been paid. The district court dismissed a petition for forfeiture of the automobile on the ground that the car was not in motion when searched. The Circuit Court, however, ruled that if customs officer has the legal right to search a ship, store or vehicle when he has reason to believe that the same contains contraband liquor. The decision of the district court was reversed and the case was sent back to the lower court for review.

Reversing a decision by the district court, the circuit court today granted citizenship papers to Jacob Joseph Tutun, of Chelsea. The papers had been denied by the lower court because Tutun, a Harvard Law School graduate, claimed military exemption on the ground that he was an alien.

Sacrifices Life For Her Child

Pittsburgh, June 2.—Mrs. Rosa Stolar, 31, widowed mother, sacrificed her life today to save that of Mary, her 7-year-old daughter, when the two were trapped on the track of the Pennsylvania railroad at Duquesne, near here.

Mrs. Stolar was taking her daughter to school, across the railroad tracks from their home. After waiting for an eastbound train to pass, the two walked on to the tracks, unaware that another train was approaching from the east.

Realizing her plight, Mrs. Stolar, without a moment's hesitation, hurled the little girl to safety beyond the track as the train thundered down upon the mother.

American Released.

Mexico City, June 2.—J. W. Shanklin, chief of the colonizing department of the El Potrero Sugar Mills and an American citizen, who was kidnapped on May 21 by bandits and held for ransom, has been released.

In the Surrogate's Court.

Letters of administration have been granted in the surrogate's court to Carl Miller in the estate of Elizabeth Miller of Kingston, who died intestate. Value of estate $1,200 real; about $100 personal. Amos Van Etten attorney for petitioner.

2 Missing from Day Line Steamer

Officials of Hudson River Day Line Believe the Two Missing Passengers of Washington Irving Are in a Hospital—Probing Collision.

New York, June 2.—A wide hunt had revealed no trace early today of Mrs. Lynn Hoag and her three-year-old daughter, Mary, feared to have been lost when the Hudson River Liner Washington Irving was rammed and sunk by an oil barge here yesterday. Officials of the line, however, expressed confidence that the two missing passengers had been landed and would be found in a hospital in New York or on the New Jersey side of the river.

Mrs. Hoag and her little daughter lived at 3234 Eighty-third street, Jackson Heights. At the time of the accident, Mrs. Hoag was enroute to join her husband, a physician, who had gone to Buffalo to attend the American Pediatric Convention. Mrs Hoag's other two children, Betty, seven, and Arthur, five, were picked up by a tug. The vessel's other 200 passengers and crew of 105 were saved.

Lawyers and officials of the Hudson River Day Line and representatives of the owners of the Tugboat Thomas E. Moran and its barges continued to question witnesses today, but both sides refrained from attempting to fix blame for the accident. One of the two barges which the tug was towing crashed through the starboard side of the Washington Irving, opening up a huge hole below the waterline and allowing water to rush into her engine rooms.

Today the Washington Irving lies in thirty feet of water at Pier 12 on the New Jersey side of the river with her main deck and most of her superstructure clear of the water. The vessel is valued at $1,000,000, but is said to have been insured for considerably less than that amount.

Three investigations into the collision which sent the world's largest excursion ship to the bottom were under way today. The United States steamboat inspectors were conducting a probe, officials of the Hudson River Day Line, owners and operators of the Washington Irving, were making an investigation and engineers of the Hudson Vehicular Tunnel, above which the ship grounded, sought to determine if the ship's weight had damaged the tubes.

ROYAL COUPLE AT SESQUI-EXPOSITION.

Philadelphia, June 2.—The major program of the third day of the Sesqui-Centennial Exposition will be the visit today of Crown Prince Gustavus Adolphus and Crown Princess Louise of Sweden, who will attend the cornerstone laying of the John Morton Building on the Sesqui-Centennial Grounds.

The royal couple will arrive at the Sesqui-Centennial Grounds at noon.

The John Morton Building is a memorial to the only Swedish signer of the Declaration of Independence. The building was erected through funds contributed by citizens of Swedish birth and ancestry.

There was a noticeable increase in the number of visitors at the exposition this morning over the attendance of yesterday which was held to but a few thousand by inclement weather.

This afternoon the marathon race and drills by Arab patrols of the Shriners will entertain Sesqui-Centennial visitors.

Bijarakis Wins $600 Verdict

Jury in Supreme Court Awards Damages Growing Out of Accident When Two Autos Collided Near Central Post Office at 2 A. M.

Michael Bijarakis, plaintiff in the action brought against Daniel Ferguson to recover damages for injuries to an automobile, was awarded a verdict in the sum of $600 in the Supreme court Tuesday.

The case was a negligence action growing out of an automobile collision and was tried on Tuesday afternoon. Michael Bijarakas of this city sued to recover damages from Daniel Ferguson and Mr. Ferguson in turn sought to recover by counter claim for damages to his Studebaker car which he claimed was injured to the extent of about $170. The plaintiff was driving up Broadway at the time of the accident and Ferguson was proceeding down. The time was about 2 o'clock in the morning

Plaintiff claimed that the defendant turned his car from the west side of Broadway and made a left hand turn to enter Grand street at the Central post office and was the cause of the accident. Defendant claimed that he was free from negligence, that the plaintiff was driving at an excessive speed up Broadway in the car tracks, that at the time of the accident his Studebaker was still to the right of the street and that the accident was solely the fault of Bijarakis

The Bijarakis car struck the Studebaker and then ran off into the safety zone in front of the post office.

Special Patrolman Ira Britt, who was near the scene of the accident, testified that he had come out of a lunch room just below the post office where he had been having a lunch. He saw the Bijarakis car coming up Broadway in the trolley tracks. He thought it was exceeding the speed limit and sounded a warning by striking his night stick against the curb. The accident happened a moment later.

Witnesses testified that Ferguson was traveling about 15 or 20 miles an hour as he crossed the West Shore tracks and proceeded south. Ferguson said he was going slow as he approached the intersection of the street where he was to turn and proceed home.

Chris J. Flanagan appeared for the plaintiff and Thomas J. P. Cawley and Augustus Shufeldt for the defendant.

These Prisoners Had a Menagerie

One Had a Cow and Horse and the Other Two Young Puppy Dogs—Both Men Picked Up for Public Intoxication and Fined $5 Each.

"One prisoner, one cow and one horse," remarked Officer William Roedell as he entered police headquarters late Tuesday afternoon. "This is the prisoner," and he pushed forward William Morse of Maple Hill, "and the cow and horse I have parked outside."

Morse was leading, or attempting to lead, the horse and cow home to Maple Hill through Henry street while intoxicated, and as a result was tying up traffic. The cow and horse were lodged at Elmer Palen's stables while Morse was lodged in the county jail until this morning when Judge Shufeldt imposed a fine of $5 on his plea of guilty, and then suspended payment provided Morse return to the farm and behave himself.

At a later hour in the evening Officer Fatum entered police headquarters stating, "One prisoner and two pups." The prisoner, Joseph McSpirit of West Hurley, had been picked up for public intoxication on Broadway and was lodged for the night in the county jail while the two young dogs spent the night in the police barn. This morning McSpirit on his plea of guilty was fined $5.

"Good gosh," muttered Sergeant Phinney after he had booked the two men, "I hope the next prisoner does not have an elephant with him."

Expect to Agree On 48 Hour Week

Legislative Committee Said to Favor Such a Law for Women and Its Enactment Anticipated by Next State Legislature.

Albany, June 2.—The 1927 Legislature will see the end of the long fight for a 48 hour working week for women and minors in this state, according to reports at the Capitol today.

The committee authorized by the 1926 session, to make a thorough investigation of important labor measures, will recommend the enactment of a 48-hour law, according to the reports. The investigation will be made during the summer by the legislative committee.

For several years, Governor Al Smith and the Republican leaders of the Legislature have been at odds over the 48 hour week proposal. In 1925, the Republicans, controlling both houses of the Legislature, passed a bill which they called a 48 hour measure. The governor vetoed it, however, after characterizing it as a "fraud."

When the 1926 session got under way there was every indication that the 48 hour bill, which would be acceptable to the governor, would be passed. The session moved along, and not until almost the closing days did the G. O. P. leaders make up their minds not to pass the bill which was sponsored by Senator Mastick and Assemblyman Shonk, Westchester Republicans. Then Senator Knight, the Republican leader of the upper house, introduced a resolution creating a committee to investigate all important labor bills. Governor Smith sent a special message to the lawmakers urging them to take action on the 48 hour bill but the Republican leaders refused with the result that little important labor legislation was passed.

The committee which will make the investigation will be in control of the Republicans. With a gubernatorial election coming on this fall, it is said that the committee will declare late in the summer in favor of a 48 hour law in the hope of winning votes for the Republican candidates at the general election.

Changes in Farm Relief Measure

Washington, June 2.—In an effort to overcome eastern opposition and obtain a favorable vote on farm relief legislation before congress adjourns, farm bloc leaders in the senate agreed today on a number of important changes in the revamped McNary-Haugen Bill.

The principal changes were: To reduce the appropriation to $100,000,000, to apply the equalization fee at once on cotton and corn, and to authorize the board which would be created to guarantee the farmer a price for his surplus crops that would be commensurate with the tariff, plus transportation charges. This is known as the "tariff yardstick price."

Mr. Reade believes in spending his money where he gets it and giving preference to local people.

Mr. Campbell was interviewed this morning and said he would commence work on the new addition at once and would rush it through as quickly as possible so that the people of Kingston might have the pleasure of enjoying it. It is understood that not only moving pictures but vaudeville and plays will be held here, as the stage will be sufficiently large to accommodate any of the New York attractions. COMMONS APPROVE EXTENDING STATE OF EMERGENCY

London, June 2.—The House of Commons this afternoon, by a vote of 249 to 100, approved the King's proclamation extending the state of emergency due to the coal strike.

Laborites made a strong protest against the continuance of the emergency regulations.

Premier Baldwin has indicated that the government is willing to renew its offer of a subsidy to the coal industry, if the coal strike is ended, but as yet there are no signs of any possibilities of an early settlement.

The Premier is still in contact with both the miners and the operators, but neither side has made any advance towards settlement nor displayed any willingness to break away from the demands which have brought about the deadlock.

The government has been roundly attacked in the House of Commons by J. Ramsay MacDonald and Lloyd George for its failure to bring an end to the strike.

U. S. DOCUMENTS EAGERLY SOUGHT

Public Purchases 7,770,782 Government Publications in a Year.

Washington.—The document division of the government printing office, which, under the superintendent of documents, has charge of the distribution and sale of nearly all government publications, except those allotted to members of congress, last year made sales amounting to $487,922.68, an increase of $47,017.70 over the preceding year, and $194,551 more than for the fiscal year 1921, according to George H. Carter, United States public printer.

In the fiscal year 1925 the document division sold 7,770,782 copies of various government publications, an increase of 526,041 over the sales for 1924. Most of these publications were ordered by letters, of which 375,571 were received during the year. A large number also were sold over the counter of the government bookstore on the ground floor of the Document building.

The increasing sale of government publications is especially noteworthy, says Mr. Carter, in view of the fact that the office has no funds for advertising its products and has to compete with free distribution by members of congress and other officers of the government.

The sale of government publications could be greatly increased, declares Mr. Carter, by ending the present wasteful method of free distribution which cannot supply all the demands and is therefore of benefit only to comparatively few persons. The charge for government publications, it is pointed out, is nominal, based upon reprint cost, plus 10 per cent. With this low cost no real reason is seen by the public printer why the distribution of practically all government publications should not be put on a sales basis and every one thus given equal consideration in the supply of public documents.

Would Help Pay for Printing.

"Increased sales would, of course, help compensate the government for the cost of printing," the report continues, "but a material growth in sales, unless accompanied by a reduction of the free copies, would necessitate an additional force and a larger building for the document division, which is already seriously overcrowded. Therefore, any plan for the increased sale and distribution of government publications should, of necessity, take into consideration additional facilities and larger quarters for the document division.

"During the fiscal year 1925 the document division distributed 54,084,458 copies of publications. About 7,000,000 of these copies were purchased by the public. The distribution was made in 21,372,292 packages, filling 139,155 mail sacks. Periodical distribution for the various department and subscription lists requires the handling of 1,235 mailing lists containing approximately 835,000 names. From these mailing lists 22,712,964 machine-stencil impressions were made during the year.

"In order to meet the demand for government publications the document division has to carry a regular stock of fully 30,000,000 copies, including almost every publication issued by the government in the last half century. During the year the superintendent of documents received and stored 55,138,827 copies of the products of the government printing office.

"Not all of the copies printed annually ever reach the public. During the year 2,645,531 obsolete and useless copies, which had been ordered by the departments in former years, had to be disposed of as waste paper. Millions more of government publications will have to be consigned to the scrap heap year after year, if the present excess printing for free distribution continues and no additional space is provided for their storage.

"The superintendent of documents also conducts an extensive information service concerning government publications. Last year his office received and answered 161,852 letters of inquiry and aided several thousand other inquiring persons who visited the office. The fact that the document division possesses a remarkable library of government publications, consisting of 375,000 books, pamphlets and maps, for which there is a complete reference catalogue, makes it possible to furnish information which could not be obtained as readily and accurately from any other source.

Better Library Service.

"Better service is being rendered the depository libraries than ever before, as indicated by the increasing number of libraries that have found it advantageous to secure congressional designation as depositories of government publications. By the new law allowing depositories to select the class of publications to be furnished by the government, the depository libraries have been relieved of the unbearable burden heretofore imposed in having to receive and store copies of every publication printed by the government.

"Under the selection plan only 20 of the designated depository libraries elected to take copies of all government publications; 230 libraries receive more than 50 per cent of the list, and 173 of the smaller libraries less than 50 per cent, or only the publications of special interest to their patrons. This plan has effected a saving in the printing of thousands of publications, which heretofore the libraries had to discard after a time owing to lack of space or usefulness.

"Another agreeable service to the depository libraries is the immediate delivery of all congressional documents and reports that are of sufficient size to be bound separately. Formerly it was necessary to hold all these publications until after the close of a session of congress so that they could be bound in sets. Many publications of congress were obsolete or useless before they were sent to the libraries. The more prompt delivery was made possible through the co-operation of the joint committee on printing in adopting the new method of distribution as proposed by this office."

Many obstacles are encountered by the document division which are unknown to most mail-order houses, it is pointed out by the superintendent of documents. The question of stock is always an uncertain quantity, he states, since, as a general rule very little information is had on which to base requirements. Publicity from unanticipated sources often exhausts the supply and aside from creating delays while reprints are made, if the publication was run from type and not plated, refunds have to be made. During the last fiscal year, he reports, $10,631.11 was returned, representing either overpayments or supply exhausted.

Would Facilitate Payments.

"The adoption by the government of a legal tender of small amounts along the line of the Canadian postal note would be a great convenience, not only for the public in ordering government publications, but for any one patronizing a mail-order house where small remittances are involved," declares the superintendent in his report to the public printer.

"Although we advertise that postage stamps will not be accepted, last year more than $12,000 worth were received as remittances. If we could not find an outlet for these stamps it would be necessary to return them as nonacceptable for the reason that they cannot be converted into cash. Fortunately our foreign business has grown to such an extent that we were able to use all of them. I am convinced that advertising of stamps as nonacceptable keeps a great many people from ordering publications, when the remittance is a small amount, because they consider it is too much trouble to obtain a money order.

"The generous policy of the United States government in its free distribution of publications has no doubt served to depreciate their value. Those opposed to a restricted free distribution might be interested in knowing that Great Britain since the war has discontinued even its pre-war limited free distribution, and now all libraries have to purchase their copies.

"The British government, recognizing the value of its publications, in 1887 passed a resolution permitting the reprinting of information contained in a majority of them. The policy is similar to ours, in that we do not allow copyrighting. The two countries also entertain similar views in their practice of charging the prime cost to the government, so that the public may purchase at a nominal cost for paper, presswork and binding."

Havoc Was Extensive in Krupp Dismantling

London.—Remarkable figures showing the havoc wrought at the Krupp works under the direction of the Interally control commission are given in the report presented at the annual meeting of the company, says a Berlin correspondent.

The machines destroyed numbered 9,300 and had a total weight of about 90,000 tons. The dies and tools sacrificed reached the prodigious total of 901,420, their aggregate weight being 9,566 tons.

Further, 379 presses, tempering furnaces, oil and water tanks, cooling plants and overhead travelers were scrapped on the commission demands. On the testing grounds 130 experimental guns and 1,100 tons of ammunition were destroyed. The replacement value of all this property is estimated at about 104,000,000 marks.

The report mentions that the concern is now permitted to make annually not more than four guns above seventeen inches.

Maiden's Modesty Halts Sword Duel With Man

Budapest.—A maiden's modesty has been the cause for the cancellation of a duel with swords between the girl and a man.

Because of what she regarded as unjust criticism of girls in a fencing school, the girl, eighteen years old, sent her seconds to the young man. He accepted the challenge.

The men appeared on the dueling grounds. When the maid arrived the seconds insisted that she should comply with the rules. The girl refused, and the man's seconds then declared the duel could not be fought.

The man who is always broke generally needs a good roasting.

Elting Imposes $10,000 Fine

New York, June 2.—Failure to declare jewelry and personal effects when the Liner Rotterdam arrived here from Europe, cost Miss Grace M. Emery, wealthy resident of Bradford, Pa., $19,000 today. A fine of $10,000 was imposed by Collector of the Port Philip Elting, who also ordered the forfeiture of the property she failed to declare.

Miss Emery reclaimed the jewelry and paid the $19,000. This is the largest fine imposed for failure to declare goods during the year.

Four Children Burned to Death

Vancouver, B. C., June 2.—Four children were burned to death and their father was burned so badly that both legs were amputated at the hospital at Nelson as the result of a fire on a ranch near York, sweeping down on the farm house. The mother, who had left her six children and her husband in the farm house, returned to find the structure in flames, with two of her children crying outside.

Take Cops from Ashokan District

The police barracks of the New York board of water supply at Allaben will be discontinued on June 9, when the five men who have been doing patrol duty at that point will be transferred to Gilboa where the board of water supply has still considerable to be done. The removal of the five patrolmen from the Allaben section will leave the Ashokan reservoir district without policemen in so far as the New York board of water supply is concerned.

SENATE WILL CONSIDER WET BILLS THURSDAY.

Washington, June 2.—The senate prohibition committee will meet tomorrow to consider the numerous wet bills which have been introduced, Senator Means (R), of Colorado, announced today.

The wet measures are those of Senators Edge (R), of N. J., Edwards (R), of N. J., and Bruce (D), of Md. They would provide repeal of the Volstead Act, a national referendum on prohibition, and manufacture of beer and light wines, "non-intoxicating in fact."

Overwhelmingly dry, the committee is expected to disapprove of the measures.

Wets announced they would carry a fight to the floor to get a record vote.

DENVER BUSINESS MAN COMMITS SUICIDE

Denver, Colo., June 2.—Despondency over financial reverses and ill health was ascribed today as the cause of the suicide of Charles M. Welch, prominent Denver business man and former newspaper man of Syracuse, N. Y.

Welch shot himself through the mouth at his home here yesterday, dying within a few hours. He left a note of "explanation" for the coroner, bitterly denouncing former business associates in the banking business here for his financial difficulties, and saying that he was dying of a "broken heart."

Welch, 56 years of age, was connected with the Syracuse Herald for many years before coming to Colorado.

CONFESSION CLEARS UP THE TELFORD MURDER

Buffalo, June 2.—Police announced today the solution of the murder of Mrs. Anna Telford, murdered on the night of April 11, 1924, at her home here. Mariano Leggio and Samuel Mazzie, under arrest, have confessed to the murder, Chief Higgins announced.

The confessions, the chief said, named William McKenna, now serving a twenty year term in Auburn Prison for criminal assault and Dominic Zirtolo, recently killed in a fall off a church steeple here, as members of the gang which killed Mrs. Telford. The men entered the Telford home for the purpose of committing robbery.

MACKINAC DEFENDANTS PLEAD NOT GUILTY

Providence, R. I., June 2.—Captain George W. McVay, Chief Engineer, John A. Grant and Agent George J. Kelley of the Steamboat Mackinac, on trial in connection with the sinking of the vessel with a loss of 55 lives, withdrew their pleas of Nolo contendere before Judge Charles A. Walsh in Superior Court today and rendered their original pleas of not guilty.

Judge Walsh on recommendation of Attorney General Charles P. Sisson remanded trial for October 18.

McVay and Grant are charged with manslaughter and Kelley is charged with being an accessory before the fact.

"Engaged to four girls at once? How do you explain such conduct?" "I don't know. Cupid must have had a machine gun."

Cape Is Featured on Mantle Frock

Some Are Cut on the Dress, While Others Can Be Detached.

The smart fabrics for the new tailored suits are tweeds, good English fabrics as men choose for their suits, and the new thin "frescas" of Meyer, with very frail stripes in gray or brown. Brown from the palest sand to the yellowish mustard appears in the majority of the new tweed fabrics. The simple coats, writes a fashion correspondent in the New York Herald-Tribune, which are to be worn on cool and rainy days instead of a tailored suit, receive a very charming character by the adding of the cape. This cape is the greatest competitor of the tailored suits and is also the typical accessory for the new tailored mantle—frocks which are usually carried out in soft and gay pastel colors. There are short, long, pleated or narrow capes, always harmonizing with the dress. Some are cut on the dress, others can be detached. The dress is very often a two-piece affair consisting of a skirt and a jumper which is buttoned in front.

Black satin also is a well-liked material for coats for summer wear. One with a short cape has a collar of ermine. It is cut on straight lines, broken by a belt, fastened with a fancy buckle.

The famous Chanel crepella frocks are appearing on the avenues of Paris in large numbers. Each seems more lovely and wearable than the last. Wine red, delicate beiges, navy with royal blue and lacquer red are the favorite colors. Little scarves accompany many of these dresses and some of them have a discreet trimming of buttons to match. A bow on the shoulder or at the back of the corsage and another defining the waistline is used.

Black Satin Is One Popular Material for Summer Coats.

Martha Regnier, that clever and remarkable actress whose talent has endeared her to many Americans, also has become a well-known modiste. Sports and day clothes are her specialty, and she is now launching a collection of dainty and simple summer frocks. She has riding habits, golf suits, tennis frocks and a white kasha yachting dress with wide box plaits and a blue collar that is most attractive with its little pea jacket of the traditional blue cloth with brass buttons. Her "camping" outfit is certain to appeal to the woman who demands chic even when camping. It has amusing breeches and a very workmen-like blue flannel shirt that would not look out of place in the remotest mountain village of the Far West.

The dinner jacket so popular this spring appears as part of a black tailored suit with a skirt whose front plaits are so arranged one might almost imagine it to be divided.

Although shirring has long been a favorite type of stitchery with Chanel, she uses it this season in a manner that is entirely new, showing that every kind of sewing is capable of infinite variety in the hands of a genius.

Futuristic Designs on Footwear Fashionable

Futuristic designs on footwear are becoming more common in the collections of Parisian custom shoemakers, and for a double reason. First, the trend in this movement was taken by Perugia, and, second, owing to the ease with which futuristic or jazz patterns can be carried out in colored kid. It is reported from Cannes that futurism in footwear is also prevalent there and at other Riviera resorts.

Leather and color combination in these futuristic shoes are as follows: Light beige kid quarter and suede vamp, which is covered with a geometrical pattern in various shades of beige and brown kid; silver and gold kid, with long triangles on the vamp; beige and woodland brown; black patent, with gold and red for the jazz design.

Can't Judge by Appearance

We may possibly not be good, or noble, or beautiful, even in the midst of the greatest sacrifice; and the sister of charity who dies by the bedside of a typhoid patient may perchance have a mean, rancorous, miserable soul.—Bloomfield.

KINGSTON, N. Y., JUNE 2, 1926

"THE BIG PARADE" IN LONDON.

The reception of "The Big Parade" in London could not have been foreseen, yet is readily explicable. Something of the sort would have been inevitable, even if American pre-eminence in the motion-picture field had not caused jealous irritation in some quarters, and even if the unpopularity of this country in Europe had not grown apace in recent times. For "The Big Parade" is misnamed, the title conveying the impression that a panorama of the World War in general was attempted. This partly explains why a woman in the audience at the first performance in London cried out: "Shame! There are no English soldiers in the picture," and why the London public and press vehemently denounce the production as a gross travesty on history as well as a preposterous and insolent glorification of American achievement at the expense of the Allies. "They have our money," exclaims the outraged London Express, "and now they want our glory!"

Let us be fair, putting ourselves in their place and imagining their feelings, after their great struggle, enduring fortitude and vast sacrifices. A picture of the "big parade" of the World War with the English left out would indeed be an inexcusable injustice and a manifest absurdity. But the French soldiers, the Belgian, the Italian, the rest of them, are also left out. The production, though great in itself, a very masterpiece of film art, does not undertake the altogether too ambitious attempt to picture the great struggle in general. It is merely the story of America's entrance into the war and the humorous as well as the tragic experiences of three typical American soldiers in France. The aim was a realistic picture of a small bit of the war, as seen by three American soldiers, with the comedy and gallantry in a French village far from the front as a large, almost the larger, part of the theme.

The bitter criticism in London, with its suggestion of something like hysteria, appears to be the result of a misapprehension and misguided expectation. Surely it will moderate after reflection that the whole subject could not be covered in a single picture and that a similar British production would inevitably give the center of the stage, if not the whole stage, to the English soldier. "The Big Parade" could have been more appropriately and accurately entitled "Three Doughboys in France." With such a title it would have been far less likely to shock the British public and wound their pride in their heroic sacrifices and terrible losses. This storm of criticism, however, is one more of the numerous reminders that the great popularity of America and Americans in the period of 1917-1919 has not only become extinct in Europe but has been replaced by unfriendly feeling which, altogether apart from its causes and the question of the responsibility for it, is greatly to be regretted.

Factory workers in New York city received an average of $12.81 a week in December, 1914; in December, 1925, they received $30.73. For January, 1926, even this last high pay was boosted to $30.85 per worker. Wages have increased about 138 per cent; living costs have increased about 70 per cent. These figures, approximately, prevail all over the United States. It is from this surplus earning power that the country draws the pay for its autos, its radios, its new homes, its corporation stocks with 15,000,000 owners. While some industries and some sections of the country have not been uniformly prosperous, these figures show a general average. But everywhere there has been a lift in conditions.

Speaking at the sesquicentennial of the Virginia colonial resolutions for American freedom, President Coolidge recently gave an impressive address on the function of the state. He urged the people to make their local government and business units so sane and strong that there could be neither need nor excuse for federal interference. He said that no plan of centralization ever has been adopted that did not result in bureaucracy, tyranny and inflexibility. This is not news to historians or students of human affairs. But it gains force through being the sober, official expression of a peculiarly astute American, just at a time when there are some shouters for a federal-ownership panacea.

The Chicago Tribune, which has long modestly described itself as "the world's greatest newspaper," now makes "no apology for foreseeing the day when Chicago will be first among the cities of the world." The Tribune might have added that Chicago is already first in the matter of its criminal record.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

GUIDING THE CHILD.

A European nerve specialist has given us something to think about in the matter of these "nervous" cases, who do not fit well into the ordinary scheme of life.

He says that during the third to the fifth year the child is beginning to find himself, and the way he finds himself, or his folks permit him to find himself, determines his outlook on life thereafter.

If at this particular time he is completely repressed, is not allowed to express himself in any way, or if as is so frequently the case his very weakness or innocence so appeals to the parents that they do everything for him, then he is going to expect or look for this consideration thereafter.

Thus either repressing him too much, or giving him his own way too much by doing things for him he should do for himself, he may develop what our nerve specialists call the "inferiority complex."

This type of individual gets the idea that he is not quite capable of meeting the "difficulties" of normal life. He thus, perhaps unconsciously, looks about for an easy way out of some of his responsibilities, and thus avoids certain daily tasks, social obligations, often even the raising of a family.

On the other hand he expects certain privileges and favors from his associates, because he is "ill," in a sense.

A normal person expects "to do his bit" in every phase of life, accepting the responsibilities that must come.

Now this investigator informs us that a child with a poor start like that mentioned above must carry it always.

Just how true that is I don't know, but I do know that a child that is encouraged to play with other children, to give and take in that play, to be an outfielder when he'd like to be a pitcher, and made to be a catcher when he'd like to be an outfielder, to be "it" for "tag" or "hide and seek" when it is his turn to be it," is either going to get some of that early "spoiled" stuff knocked out of him, or develop something that enables him to overcome it.

Later in life when he plays the more strenuous games he will develop even more of it.

If your child doesn't want to play with other youngsters, then irrespective of how "brainy" he is, he is not heading in the normal direction.

It is up to you to guide him gently but firmly in the normal direction.

They say I'm "fussy"

WELL, let that go. I'm ready to admit that so far as pipe tobacco is concerned, I've got ideas. And if insisting on a tobacco that won't bite the tongue or parch the throat is "being fussy," you can write "guilty" alongside my name, and I won't even appeal the charge.

I can't speak for anybody else, but personally I smoke for pleasure! So I smoke Prince Albert. I'll say I do. Right after breakfast, on up until I switch off the light for the night. Pipe-load after pipe-load. Day after day. Prince Albert treats my tongue as gently as a mother handles a brand-new baby.

They tell me it's the Prince Albert process that cuts out bite and parch. Fair enough. I'll testify before the well-known world that P. A. is the coolest, sweetest, most genuinely friendly smoke a fellow can get on this planet. You suspect that the minute you throw back the hinged lid on the tidy red tin and get a whiff of real tobacco.

Now, I'm telling you to be fussy about your smoking. Many a pipe-smoker has fooled himself when he should have been soothing himself with P. A. I say it pays to be fussy about anything that means so much to a man. What do you think?

P. A. is sold everywhere in tidy red tins, pound and half-pound tin humidors, and pound crystal-glass humidors with sponge-moistener top. And always with every bit of bite and parch removed by the Prince Albert process.

Today's Story in New York History

By Frederic A. Godcharles.

(Copyright, 1926, by the Author)

William Gilliland Makes Irish Settlement on Shores of Boquet River, June 2, 1765.

Fort Frederick was erected by the French at Crown Point in 1731, but French settlements had already commenced on both shores of the lake. In 1755 the French pushed twelve miles nearer to the English settlements, and commenced the fortification of Ticonderoga upon a point that entirely commanded the passage of the lake.

The English were at long length aroused by these advancements of the French military posts, and determined that the very existence of the frontier settlements depended upon the complete overthrow of the French power in America.

One of the first great expeditions was directed against Crown Point in 1755. The English troops built Fort Lyman—afterward Fort Edward—on the Hudson, and soon afterward Sir William Johnson gained a decided victory over the French, but did not follow up his success. He spent the season in constructing Fort William Henry.

This region for many years was the theatre of important military events. In July, 1756, Montcalm, Governor of Canada, assembled 9,000 troops at Ticonderoga, and marched to the head of Lake George, and on August 9, 1757, captured Fort William Henry. In July, 1758, General Abercrombie, with 17,000 troops was repulsed at Ticonderoga; the following year General Amherst invested Ticonderoga and Crown Point, and greatly strengthened both works.

By the Treaty of Paris, signed February 10, 1763, the French ceded their possessions in North America to the English, but the latter government was bound to respect the titles of land previously granted by the former. The King authorized the granting of lands upon Lake Champlain to officers and soldiers who had served in the war, and these inexplicable acts led to much confusion. Overlapping claims and conflicting titles unavoidably followed, and the matter was not finally settled until after the Revolution. In the meantime the controversy had the tendency to retard settlement, by destroying confidence in the titles by which the land could be held and conveyed.

Settlement was commenced upon the Boquet River, June 2, 1765, under the auspices of William Gilliland, a wealthy merchant of New York. Through his agency and that of other capitalists, several miles of the lake shore between the mouth of the Boquet and Crown Point were settled, miles and roads were built, and schools established. Mr. Gilliland held a justice's commission, and for many years was the only judicial authority.

A convention of the settlers, most of whom were Irish, was held March 17, 1775, and a local, independent government was adopted and officers elected. Just before the Revolution a scheme was devised to form a separate colonial government, embracing all the territory north of Massachusetts and between the Connecticut and St. Lawrence Rivers. Philip Skene, the founder of Skenesborough (now Whitehall) is believed to have been the leading spirit of this movement, and his appointment as governor of the forts of Ticonderoga and Crown Point in June, 1775, seems to give color to this belief.

Mr. Gilliland and his colonists ardently embraced the American cause, and materially aided General Montgomery's army in its advance on Canada, but Gilliland's estate was wasted by both friends and foes, and finally the whole settlement was broken up by Burgoyne.

Mr. Gilliland assisted General Arnold in the prosecution of his designs to the extent of his ability, and, in return for his kindness, Arnold destroyed his buildings, mills and stores. In a memorial to Congress in 1777, Gilliland held the following truthful and prophetic language in regard to Arnold: "It is not in mine, but it is in your power to bring him to justice. Bursting with pride, and intoxicated with power,—to which he ever ought to have been a stranger, but which he has had art enough to obtain from you,—he tyrannizes where he can. If temerity, if rashness, impudence and error can recommend him to you, he is allowed to be amply supplied with these qualities; and many people think they ought to recommend him in a peculiar manner to Lord North, who, in gratitude for his having done more injury to the American cause than all the ministerial troops have had the power of doing, ought to reward him with a generous pension."

In 1781 Gilliland endeavored to retrieve his waning fortunes, and relinquishing his ideas of manorial greatness, he offered his lands in the Irish settlement for sale, but adverse law suits soon dissipated the remnant of his wealth and brought his existence to a miserable close.

Opposed Sewer Assessment.

Alderman Moore offered a resolution that the special assessment for the construction of the sewer in Stephan street and Clifton avenue be collected and that the collection be made in six installments extending over a period of six years.

County Judge Joseph M. Fowler was given the privilege of the floor and stated he appeared on behalf of several clients to file a protest against the assessment. He said he had an old copy of the city charter and was not positive whether he should appear before the council and protest or not, but in order to protect his clients he was doing so and desired to file with the council a copy of the objections that he had filed that afternoon with City Assessor William B. Martin.

He said that one of his clients, Mrs. Catherine Schoonmaker, had been assessed $3,500, which was excessive, and he said that he was willing to sell at this time to anyone in the city the Schoonmaker lots for less than the amount of the assessment. He said that the lots were mostly rock and that he had unsuccessfully made attempts to sell them but could not obtain an offer worth mentioning.

The written objections were ordered filed, and then the resolution directing the collection of the assessment over a period of six years was adopted by the council.

Other Sewer Assessments.

Alderman Moore offered a resolution directing the collection of the special assessment on the Reynolds street sewer, which was adopted.

Alderman Everett offered a resolution directing the collection of the special assessment on the South Wall street and Winchell avenue sewer, which was adopted.

Alderman Haines offered a resolution for the collection of the special assessments on the Deyo street sewer and the Foxhall avenue, Flatbush avenue and Tietjen avenue sewer, both of which were adopted. His resolution for the collection of the assessment for the Manor Place sewer was also adopted.

Alderman Everett offered resolutions that the special assessment on the Greenkill avenue sewer and the Boulevard and Greenkill avenue sewer be collected, which were adopted. The Boulevard and Greenkill avenue sewer assessment collection was extended over a period of three years in response to a communication from City Assessor Martin who wrote that the property owners had requested it.

Motions and Resolutions.

The following motions and resolutions were introduced and referred to the proper city boards:

Alderman Molyneaux—that city water be extended on easterly side of Lincoln street.

Alderman Mann—that Hasbrouck avenue from Mill to Murray streets be repaired at once; that holes be filled in Chambers street and Murray street.

Alderman Haines—that holes in pavement at Broadway and O'Neil street be repaired at once; that street at corner of Ten Broeck avenue and Elmendorf street be repaired at once.

Alderman DeGarmo—that holes be filled and ground rolled at the Crown street bus terminal.

A Fifth Ward Siren.

Before the council adjourned Alderman Moore of the Third ward asked if any of the Aldermen had heard the siren that had been installed on School No. 5 in place of the school bell. He said it was a "wicked" thing to use. "I should think it would frighten a child away from school," he said. Alderman Moore pronounced the sound made by the siren as weird, with a groaning sort of noise, and invited the other aldermen out to hear it. He wondered why it had been installed and who had installed it, and was advised that it was likely installed by the education board which had charge of the school buildings.

The council then adjourned for two weeks.

WILL ASK PREMIER BARTEL TO CONTINUE

Warsaw, June 2.—Premier Bartel will be asked to continue at the head of the government under the newly-elected president Moscicki, it was stated today.

Immediately after the inauguration of the president on Friday it is expected that the parliament will be dissolved and the government will then pass to a virtual triumvirate, consisting of President Moscicki, Premier Bartel and Marshal Pilsudski. Marshal Pilsudski will be the dominating force in this triumvirate and will immediately undertake to carry out his program of reform.

One of the first steps in the Pilsudski reform campaign, it is understood, will be legal proceedings against old government officials who are alleged to have been irregular.

Economic reforms will also be attempted by the marshal.

Count Skrzynski, it is expected, will be asked to become foreign minister and carry on the Polish foreign policy, with his principal object the immediate creation of trade agreements with Germany and other countries.

RECEPTION PHILADEL CONFIRMATION CEREMONY.

Harry Levine, son of Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Levine of 41 North Front street, was confirmed on Saturday, May 29, at the synagogue of the Congregation Ahavath Israel, Rabbi Balogh officiating. On Sunday a reception in his honor was held at Clermont Hall, Wall street, attended by 250 relatives and friends of the family. There were beautiful refreshments served, a musical program was rendered by Izzy Schwartz and orchestra during the afternoon and evening and there was dancing. Young Mr. Levine was the recipient of many fine presents.

Land Bank Loans Mostly for Cows

T. B. Tests Result in Killing So Many Cows That Majority of Farmers Are Compelled to Seek Land Bank Aid in Replacing Stock.

Springfield, Mass., June 2.—A good percentage of the money borrowed by farmers of New York and New England from the Federal Land Bank of Springfield is for the purpose of restocking herds of cut in half or wiped out by the state tuberculin test, records of the bank show. The tuberculin test finds the cows affected with bovine tuberculosis and they are removed from the herd and killed.

While the state and federal governments appropriate large sums to reimburse for losses resulting from the test, the bank records indicate that the farmer himself is obliged to stand a big share of the cost. That he is willing to do so, however, is clear for farm organizations are most active in pushing the so-called "T. B." work if the government seems loath to make the necessary appropriations. Recently New York State appropriated $3,500,000 for the continuation of bovine tuberculosis eradication in that state, at the urgent request of the State Farm Bureau Federation and other prominent farm organizations.

According to E. H. Thomson, president of the land bank, the tuberculin test, while most desirable for the consumer of milk and for the farmer, too, results in a very much reduced income temporarily when a large percentage of a herd is sent to the block because of bovine tuberculosis. The farmer is forced to immediately replace condemned animals with tuberculin tested stock and it is here that he turns to the land bank for a loan.

Mr. Thomson cited a typical case of a farmer whose farm had been in the family for sixty years and had no mortgage indebtedness until he was obliged to restock his farm as a result of the T. B. test. He secured a sufficient loan from the bank under its long term, non-callable plan to buy 40 head of cattle.

While such a loan on short term credit would have seriously handicapped him, Mr. Thomson pointed out, the land bank system, being especially designed by Congress for just such cases, made it possible for him to recuperate his losses without hardship.

Coyotes and Wolves a Menace

Fad of Bringing Them to New York to Cross with Police Dogs Followed by Wholesale Sheep Killings—License Required For Possession.

Ithaca, June 2.—The apparently innocent fad of bringing in coyotes to cross with police dogs has resulted in so many sheep killings in this state that the legislature recently passed a bill prohibiting any further importations of prairie wolves without permit. The bill was drafted at the request of the New York State Farm Bureau Federation which has headquarters in this city.

According to E. V. Underwood, secretary of the Federation, the coyotes have become a serious nuisance in Orleans county, where it is estimated 1,000 sheep were killed by them last year. Two coyotes were killed in this vicinity during the past winter and they have been seen in other parts of the state.

In commenting on the seriousness of the coyote invasion, A. A. Allen, professor of ornithology and chairman of the Commission on Conservation of Cornell, said that it was almost certain coyotes would become established in a wild state in New York were not some such prohibition as that provided by the recent bill put into effect as sooner or later they escape to lead a wild existence.

According to Professor Allen a coyote will live anywhere that a red fox will, and is controlled with much more difficulty here than on his native prairie in the west. "They are small enough to live on small rodents if kept out of the farm yard by relentless warfare," says Professor Allen, "but large enough to kill sheep, pigs, fawns, and even small calves the instant that watchfulness is lessened. They are very prolific, having nine or ten young at a litter and are clever enough to raise them within striking distance of the pasture without a farmer being aware of their presence until the whole band is large enough to descend upon the sheep pasture and make a big killing in a single night."

The bill enjoins every game protector, forest ranger and member of the state police to seize and destroy any coyote or wolf imported or possessed in this state without permit from the Conservation Commission and protects from damage suit any person killing a coyote or wolf which is held without license.

Most Below Earth

It is found in mining operations that the temperature of the earth rises about 1 degree Fahrenheit for every 60 feet of depth from the surface. On this basis the temperature of the earth in the Pendleton colliery, Manchester (2,600 feet deep and the deepest mine in Great Britain), is about 30 degrees Fahrenheit above the temperature on the surface.

Shaving Mystery

Many men wonder why a razor "pulls" on a rainy day. Our barber partly explains it by saying on the strop won't put an edge on a razor on that kind of a day. A strop will work all right in fair weather, but let it rain or snow and it becomes slippery. The trouble is with the strop, not the razor.—Capper's Weekly.

Woman Doctor Chases Burglar

Boston, June 2.—Dawn was breaking over the New England Hospital for women and children on Dimock street, Roxbury, today when a knock on her door was heard by Dr. Marjorie Woodman, 28, resident physician.

Thinking a nurse was without, Dr. Woodman called "come in."

The door opened and a masked holdup man stepped in.

The woman physician screamed as she saw the intruder level a revolver and demand money.

The holdup man turned and fled, Dr. Woodman close on his heels. The chase led several blocks but the burglar jumped into an automobile and escaped.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

By Mary Graham Bonner

BILLY THE SECOND

It seemed to Billie Brownie that he always went to see the Buffaloes when one of them was celebrating a birthday and yet the only birthday celebration they bothered much about was a seventh birthday.

"Well," said Daddy Buffalo, "there should be celebrations today and a special meal and all sorts of fine things, because today is a very fine day."

Billie Brownie knew at once what was coming.

But the others did not seem to understand at once.

"It is a fine day," agreed Mrs. Buffalo, or Mrs. American Bison, as she was sometimes known.

The American Bison or Buffalo family is somewhat different from its European cousins, known as the European Bison family, the European family being smaller in size.

"Ah, but I said that it was a very fine day," said Daddy Buffalo.

"It is that, I agree," said Mrs. Buffalo.

"It is a very fine day," she repeated. "The sun is shining, the breezes are blowing.

"It is neither too hot nor too cold.

"It is a day worth having. But, after all, Daddy Buffalo, while I am talking politely to you I don't see why the day makes any difference to you.

A Full-Grown Buffalo.

"We never mind the weather.

"Rain or shine—it is all the same to us."

Billie Brownie understood. But he was wearing his invisible robe so no one could see him.

Oh, yes, he was quite sure he understood.

"You don't understand, Buffaloes," said Daddy Buffalo, and by this time all the other buffaloes in the zoo were listening to Daddy Buffalo.

"What don't we understand?"

"It's not because of the weather that I remarked it was such a fine day, but because today is the seventh birthday of our young Billy Buffalo, the Second.

"Look at him, my friends and cousins.

"Look at Billy Buffalo.

"We must always celebrate a seventh birthday."

They all looked at Billy while he lowered his handsome head and said:

"You do me a great honor, Daddy Buffalo."

"It is his seventh birthday," repeated Daddy Buffalo.

"I am not sure of the exact day, but that does not make any difference, except with the birthdays of children and grown-ups.

"They're funny about the exact day, I've heard.

"But Billy Buffalo was born around this time of the year, seven years ago, and the way I know and we all know is not because we have counted the years but because his horns, which were once straight, are now curved as a full-grown Mr. Buffalo's horns should be curved.

"For it takes seven years to be a full-grown buffalo."

And that day when the buffaloes were given their dinner they each wished Billy Buffalo:

"Many happy returns of the day," and congratulated him on his horns, while Daddy Buffalo told a story as part of the celebration.

And when Billie Brownie went back to Fairyland and Brownieland, he said:

"Do you know another buffalo was seven years old today?

"I always seem to happen to be at the zoo on one of those fine occasions."

"Isn't it strange," the others said, "but strange things do happen.

"Everyone says so, and it must be the truth."

Nutty Natural History

By WILLIAM BRITTON.

THE MANCHURIAN TODDIE.

The toddie is the useful but little known bobtailed, humpless camel found grazing on the rolling prairies between the Chang-pashan Mountains and the city of Mukden. Before the Russo-Japanese war, toddie-raising was one of the important industries of Manchuria, but when the Japanese took Port Arthur they clamped down the lid on the exportation of camel's hair, and thousands of tame toddies were turned loose to become wild ones. They usually walk as shown in the picture, with their hind legs longer to keep their tails, which contain the choicest camel's hair, from picking up burrs and cotter-pins. The toddie is rather even-tempered, but if a burr gets in his tail, he is likely to become a bot toddie.

The highly prized tail can be rather successfully imitated by a popped popcorn fastened with chewing gum to the Brazil nut body. The head is a large double peanut with popcorn ears. Neck and legs are toothpicks, and split navy beans are used for the feet.

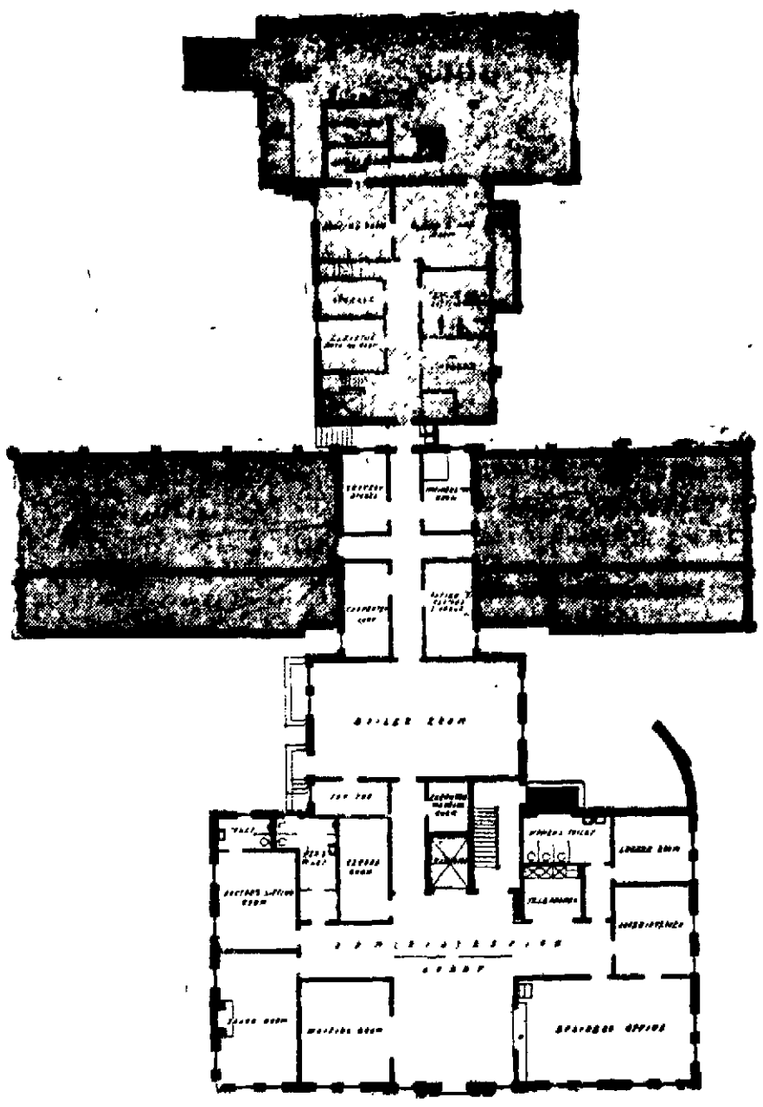
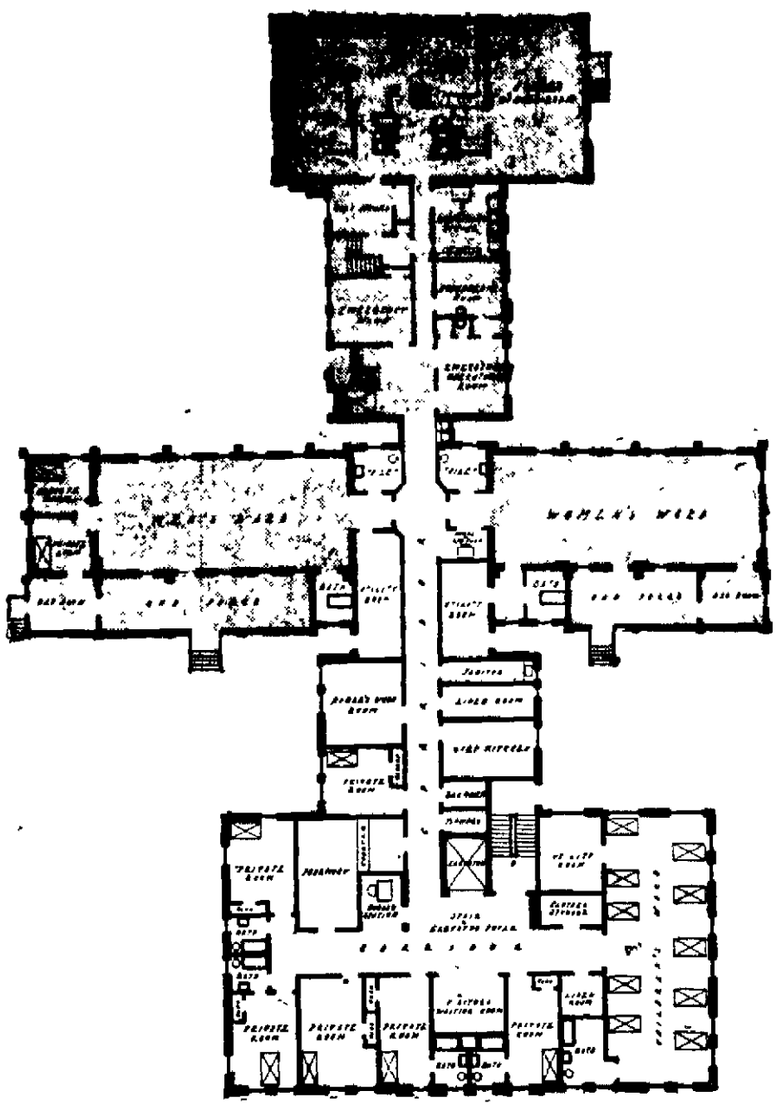
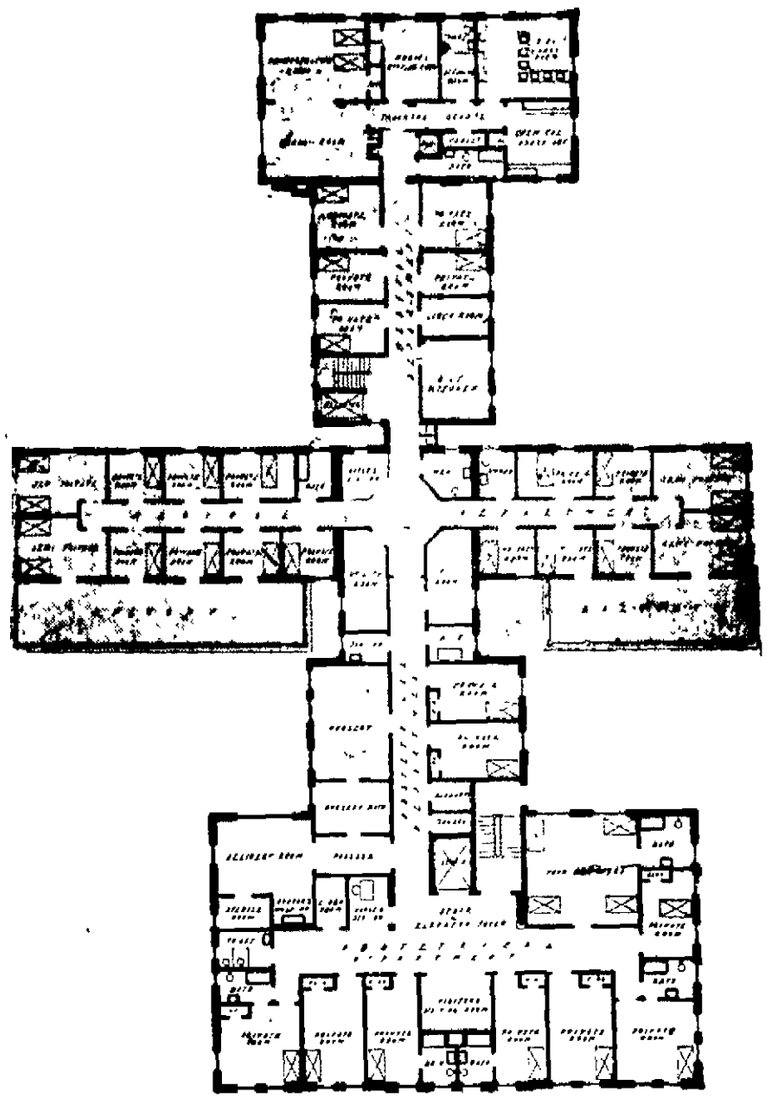
Floor Plans of the Expanded City of Kingston Hospital



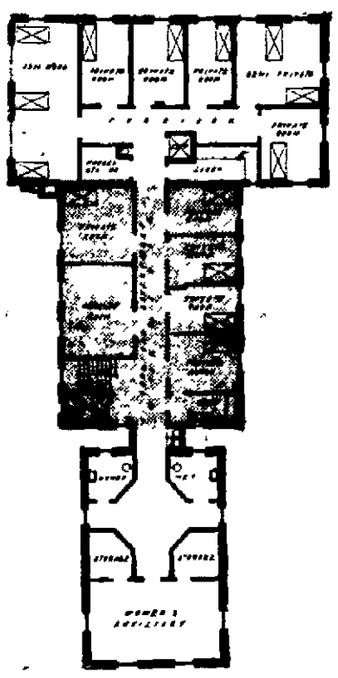
Ground Floor



First Floor



Second Floor



Third Floor

Many people in this district, which the Kingston City Hospital serves, have expressed considerable interest in the expansion plans of the hospital, wanting to know just how the bed capacity will be increased, and what additional facilities will be available when the new structure is ready for service.

The plans, as prepared by George E Lowe, architect, and tentatively approved by the board of managers of the hospital, are now available and have been published in an attractive booklet. This has been done as part of the campaign that starts on June 5th, for the purpose of raising a $300,000 fund with which to carry out the proposed expansion.

The booklet containing the list of rooms, wards, operating rooms and other features is known as the Memorial Booklet, and is being used by members of the Memorial Committee of the hospital campaign to interest the larger subscribers in memorializing rooms or wards.

The shaded section of the floor plans shown here marks out that part of the hospital which is already constructed or now under construction, with the exception of obsolete sections of the old building which will be taken out and replaced. Certain parts of the interior of the shaded section will be re-arranged in order to modernize the hospital.

The New Hospital.

The entrance to the new hospital will be within thirty feet of the sidewalk and only forty-two inches above it—convenient for patients and visitors The front section and wings of the hospital will be three stories high, that is, a ground floor, a first floor, and a second floor. The central section between the wings and the entire rear section will contain five stories.

The completed hospital will be fireproof from cellar to roof. The non-fireproof section of the old building will be taken out, and all new parts will be of fireproof construction.

The hospital will have a capacity of 120 beds including 16 bassinets for babies, which is 30 more than it had before the fire and 60 more than it has now—this number is considered ideal for efficiency in management and operation.

Two elevators, one in front and one in the rear of the building, will provide service to all floors, and other modern facilities will be added that are necessary for convenience and efficiency.

Ground Floor.

The chief feature of interest on this floor is the compact administrative department in the new front section of the building. The business office and the main waiting room are placed on either side of the entrance so that visitors and patients can be comfortable and receive immediate attention. The elevator, telephones, and other conveniences, are easily accessible. The other features on this floor, including a laundry, and storage and boiler rooms, are necessary adjuncts of a hospital plant.

First Floor.

Here a children's ward replaces the one destroyed in the fire, and is designed so as to get the sunlight all day long, making it bright and cheerful for the youngsters. Also in front are private rooms with baths and closets, the pharmacy and diet kitchen, and a room for flowers. In the rear is the emergency operating room, with the ambulance entrance and elevator just across from it. The orthopedic room is placed on this floor as many patients requiring this work are children.

The nurses' dining room and kitchen are in the back; and the main men's and women's wards that flank the central section are modern in every respect as they were built only a few years ago.

Second Floor.

The entire front section of this floor is given over to the maternity (obstetrical) department, which contains a nursery, a delivery room, a four-bed ward and private rooms.

There is a small room with a special arrangement for warming blankets used with mothers and babies, and also a waiting room where anxious fathers may await the arrival of their youngest. Sections of the nurses' training school and a chemical laboratory comprise the extreme rear section on this floor.

Third Floor.

Here is a work room for the Women's Auxiliary, a three-bed ward and additional private and semi-private rooms.

The patients' quarters on this floor constitute the surgical department, a unit reserved exclusively for surgical patients

Fourth Floor.

The old section of this floor will be re-arranged and when combined with the new sections will constitute a very important unit of the hospital—an adequate modern operating pavilion and X-ray and radiographic department. This unit is modeled along the lines of a similar department in the famous Crile Clinic in Cleveland, but has been improved in accordance with suggestions made by Dr. George Crile himself.

Among other features, it includes two major operating rooms with observation balconies, an eye, ear, nose and throat surgical room, and a separate anaesthesia room where the patients are given ether in preparation for an operation.

In designing the hospital great care has been taken to make the patients' quarters bright and cheerful. As there are no enclosed courts in the building, each room, ward and nursery to be used by patients will get a generous supply of sunlight and air. Commodious sun porches and balconies can be conveniently used by convalescing patients

Memorial Plan.

The cost of construction of the various units of the new sections of the building, as outlined above has been carefully approximated, and tabulated in the Memorial Booklet Memorials may be subscribed for these units from $1,200 for a ward bed or nurses' station, upwards, depending upon the unit selected, the subscription equalling the cost of the unit.

An operating room can be memorialized for $10,000, the pharmacy for $5,000, a large private room for $3,000, and the nursery for $6,000, and there are many intermediate units, though none costs less than $1,200. The hospital has units that were previously subscribed for, some of which were destroyed in the fire Those destroyed will be replaced and marked with the original donors tablets, and, of course, will not be available for subscription.

New Nurses' Home.

A part of the $300,000 fund will be used to build a new nurses' home, for which plans have not yet been prepared. The present nurses' home is much too small to accommodate the nurses who are at the hospital now, and of course, the expanded plant will require even more nurses.

More Time to Complete Concert

The officers of the Ulster County Musical Association wish to announce that they have been able to put off the closing of concert dates with desirable artists until June 10. This will give both old and new subscribers a little more time in which to send in their membership dues of $5 each But there will be no further extension of time The officers also wish to remind all who put off subscribing for membership in the association beyond June 10, that when the time comes for the concerts next season it will then be too late to secure tickets, as no tickets will be sold after the above mentioned date. The association expects to have the Cleveland full concert orchestra; Maier and Pattison, two-piano artists, and two other equally good programs to offer the musical people of Ulster county next season, if the people of Ulster county will promptly send in their memberships, which have not come in as fast as hoped for to date This fact is unquestionably due to oversight on the part of hosts of people who will want to attend the concerts next season.

LAST NIGHT on THE RADIO

Up to 9 o'clock the less said about it the better Nothing but WGY, WJZ, WEAF and WMSG could be heard between the lightning crashes Goldy and Dusty merely whispered

After a spasm of choking and gasping shortly after 9 WGY was good and so were "The Men That Broke the Bank at Monte Carlo" and other old timers from WJZ. Then WJZ had another attack of asthma shared by WHAP, WEAF, WFI and all stations to the south

And the bloopers, who can never learn that excessive power on their sets will never overcome static or other interference, destroyed the little that was left Lower power, not higher, is the only thing that will mitigate static, fat frying and other undesirable things that are in the air.

WGY was not affected by this attack of asthma or croup, showing that whatever ails WJZ was not general, but confined to stations to the south East and west stations were dead during this period

At 10 o'clock WJZ ceased to gasp and the west and south came to life, at least as far as WLW and WSB, with not a sound of static KDKA and WTAM joined in and all was lovely even for the radio golfer.

Dont forget to tune in on WDBZ tonight and hear the Cohen concert Then, if you like it, do something tangible to help keep WDBZ going during the summer.

ASPARAGUS TIME

This favorite vegetable comes at the time when it is very welcome. As with all of the early summer vegetables, asparagus is rich in mineral salts and vitamines. Asparagus when bought in the market is expensive food and when cooked should be served with every drop of the liquid in which the vegetable was cooked. To pay twenty five or thirty cents a bunch for asparagus and cook in it a quantity of water pouring that, when the vegetable is cooked, down the kitchen sink, is criminally wasteful It is waste not only of money but of food value. The properties which make the vegetable should be carefully preserved in the cooking A good receptacle for cooking asparagus is an old fashioned coffee pot, the bunch without cutting may be put down into the water, then covered tightly, the coarser parts will cook in the water, the tips will be steamed until tender. Use the liquor from the vegetable for a sauce, as it is rich in salts and vitamines A double boiler may be used in place of a coffee pot, using the water bath for the cooking and cover with the top of the double boiler Steamed asparagus is considered by far the best way to get all the good of the vegetable, lay it in a colander and steam over water.

Asparagus lends itself with its delicate flavor, most acceptably as a salad vegetable, combined with butter, eggs and cheese it is delicious as souffle, rabbit, or scalloped dish

Peppers Stuffed With Asparagus.—Prepare four uniform sized green peppers for stuffing Parboil and drain. Take one cupful of bread crumbs, one cupful of cooked asparagus, two tablespoonfuls of butter, one teaspoonful of lemon juice, one-half teaspoonful of salt, a few drops of mushroom catsup, mix well and fill the peppers. Bake, basting with a good soup stock. Serve garnished with stuffed olives

Often the tough ends of the asparagus may be peeled and will serve as tender as the parts nearer the tips. When too tough, cook the tough portions, saving the liquid for sauce to serve with the steamed tender tips

THE WHY, WHEN AND WHERE OF FASHION.

The Modish Touch of Red.

Flashes of red enliven the spring and summer mode A scarlet touch twinkles from milady's heel, her glove buckle, her hat-pin or her scarf—and as the warmer months appear, it is noticed that the warm color is not excluded from the range of desirables

Red is as old a color as any—and has a tremendous appeal to the human race, in general. An amusing commentary on the wearing of red is found in the diary of Philip Fithian, written in 1773. He came to Virginia as a school teacher, and wrote "almost every Lady wears a Red Cloak, and when they ride out, they tye a Red Handkerchief over their Head and Face, so when I first came to Virginia, I was distressed when ever I saw a lady, for I thought she had a ToothAch!"

Later on, this early American custom of wearing a cloak was again commented on These "Masked ladies," as he calls them, wore cloaks with hoods that not only covered the head, but the face as well with narrow slits for eyes. It is possible that the insect torments encountered by fair riders may have been the reason for this cloaking and masking.

It is credibly reported that scarlet cloth was the favorite fabric for cloaks in England, with gold loops and buttons "exceedingly magnificent" This predominance of red must have given the streets of the eighteenth century a gay and cheerful aspect—a hint of which may be gleaned from the present wearing of red.

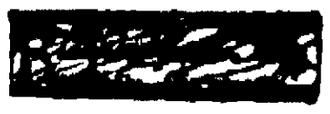
Red Tape Dulled

A crystal water pitcher, upon which was blazoned the arms of the United States of America in silver, disappeared from the courtroom of Judge Charles C. Simons in the Federal building some eight months ago. With it disappeared a glass, bearing the crest in like design, also in silver. When the loss was discovered, Judge Simons made application for a new pitcher and a new glass. For eight months Judge Simons listened to lawyer after lawyer waded through the musty, dusty processes of the law. Then he decided to thirst no longer. Francis X. Norris, clerk of the court, was delegated to shop for a pitcher, and he bought one in a downtown five-and-ten-cent store. Meanwhile Judge Simons' application for a pitcher which more becomes the dignity of the federal bench is being bound with Washington red tape.—Denver News.

Ostrich as Food

The flesh of the ostrich is used for food to a limited extent in the sections of the world where the ostrich is bred It is used fairly frequently by the Arabs, who regard it as most wholesome and palatable. The value of the feathers, however, makes it improbable that the flesh of the ostrich will ever be used to any considerable extent.



Sports Frocks Are Pocketed and Belted and Tucked, While Pleats Frequent the Hem-Line.

Although short sleeves are always necessary for the few very hot days of summer, and there is consequently an occasional short-sleeved flurry in the sartorial realm, there seems to be no doubt of the fact that this is a long sleeved summer. For the majority of women, this should prove a happy fact Many are the arms which have to rely on a bit of transforming tulle for their evening emergence! For these great classes of too-thins and too-fats, the long sleeve is a boon and a salvation.

Pin Tucks Are Distinctive Features of a One-Piece Sports Frock of Yellow Silk Crepe, the Tucks Outlining a Triangular Yoke Section and Forming the Pockets.

Close-fitting long sleeves are very picturesque, but should be confined to occasions where appearance and not practicality is stressed. Even if the fabric is of georgette or chiffon filminess, it will soon be discovered that a formfitting sleeve is very warm and uncomfortable for general wear Sleeves can be gracefully roomy, with just a bit of fulness about the wrist, and these are the long sleeves to be reckoned with, this year

Sport clothes agree on a cuff-linked long sleeve, while a frill or two is adequate excuse for a sleeve that ties at the wrist

Pockets in great abundance are cropping out for the convenience of the usually pocket-less woman, their favorite location being along the belt-line Since, to be chic, one must be belted, this year, it is interesting to note the many different ways to smartness taken by the belt Sometimes it extends across the back only, and again it shows marked preference for the front. When it makes the complete circle, it may run in and out of pleats or stay in the open all of the time.

Fashion Book Notice.

Send 15c in coin or stamps to The Freeman for our up-to-date Spring and Summer 1926 Book of Fashions, showing color plates, and containing 500 designs of ladies', misses' and children's patterns, a concise and comprehensive article on dressmaking, also some points for the needle (illustrating 20 of the various simple stitches), all valuable hints to the home dressmaker.

HOW often have you racked your perplexed brain for a possible answer—something new to vary the monotony of old favorites. Let us help! Serve a salad topped with the golden, creamy, zestful deliciousness of Ivanhoe Mayonnaise—the dressing so many women are talking about—so different from the ordinary run as to be almost startling.

No stingy-hand-measured its pure-ingredients—only twice the usual number of eggs could give such a yellow, sunshiny, gold—only fresh, sun-ripened oil gives so rich a creaminess—only a 50 percent faster beating gives the velvety smoothness. And only a wizard's magic fingers could have sprinkled in the savory spices that make you instinctively smack your lips.

FASHION'S DOWNCAST EYES LINGER ON MODISH SHOES

EVEN the oldest fashion reporter cannot recall a time when styles in shoes received so much attention and thought as this season's footwear is getting. For several years women have been growing more and more discriminating and exacting in the matter of shoes, and the element of style in footwear has mounted in importance until what is chic for the feet takes as much consideration and money as what is smart for the head.

For the street the eyes of fashion linger on oxfords and pumps—taking note of the tendency to light colors and becoming cut, for shoes as well as hats must be flattering. This year's oxford is cut a little lower than last year's, and is made of kid, patent leather, or reptile skins. Alligator, lizards and numerous snake skins, or imitations of them, are a dominating note in the fashions and very often reptile skins are combined with plain leathers. In the spring and summer displays of footwear the usual browns and black are less numerous than many light tones of brown and neutral shades, as beige, grey, parchment and the natural shades of snake skin. In choosing the walking shoe one may consider the low Cuban heel or a higher heel—but not too high, for a walking shoe is supposed to be sturdy. Stockings to match in color are approved and gloves and hat of the same color as the footwear, to be worn with tailored clothes, flourish in the smile of fashion.

Evening slippers of metallic brocade may be selected with assurance and the black satin slipper, with rhinestone buckle, has lost none of its prestige for wear with formal gowns in black. The silver or gold kid slippers or sandals are displayed among evening shoes and also beautiful new models combining metallic kid with metallic brocade.

For real sports wear it is necessary to own the proper shoes but the average woman will make out very well with a pair of white shoes in canvas, linen or kid which are classed as semi-sports shoes or with models of interwoven strips of leather.

High colors, except among evening slippers, where they appear in metallic brocades, are conspicuous by their absence from fashionable footwear, but emphasis is placed on distinctness and on soft and neutral shades that harmonize with all colors.

How Women

Now keep fresh, charming under hygienic handicap—new way provides true security—discards like tissue

THE uncertainty and insecurity of the old-time "sanitary pad" has been ended. Scientific protection now supplants it.

Wear sheer gowns, keep up with social and business requirements, at all times . . . without handicap.

"KOTEX" is a new and remarkable way . . . five times as absorbent as ordinary cotton pads.

✓ You discard it as easily as a piece of tissue. No laundry. No embarrassment.

Absorbs and deodorizes at the same time. Thus ending ALL fear of offending.

You get it for a few cents at any drug or department store simply by saying "KOTEX." Women ask for it without hesitancy.

Try Kotex. Comes 12 in a package. Proves old ways an unnecessary risk.

KOTEX

No laundry—discard like tissue

Chew Gum—Get Thin —Society's New Plan

Although members of New York's "400" can easily afford the most elaborate reducing treatments they are depending on the lowly, inexpensive chewing gum to take off their fat. It seems that science has discovered a certain harmless, medicinal ingredient, purely vegetable—free from thyroid or dangerous drugs—that dissolves all fat cells quickly. It acts most rapidly when well chewed and therefore it is embodied in a deliciously flavored chewing gum called "Slenda." It takes off several pounds a week in many cases. Local druggists are stocking a large supply of this fat-reducing chewing gum so that our stout townspeople may follow Fifth Avenue's lead and "Slenderize with Slenda."

Pilgrims' Names

"The History of American Manners" says that the Pilgrims used but five names for their posterity. What those names were has not been proved. "Old Standard" and "Tank" were two of them; "Stairway," sometimes called "St. Mary's," "Weather" and "Barrow" were probably the other three.

Reformed Synod Opens Thursday

Advance Along Missionary Lines Anticipated Because of Importance Which Missions Will Occupy in Considerations of National Body.

The One Hundred and Twentieth session of the General Synod of The Reformed Church in America will convene at Holland, Michigan, on Thursday at 2:30 p. m., central standard time. The first order of business will be the election of a president, vice-president and three clerks to serve for one year. In the evening at 7:30, the Rev. William Bancroft Hill, D. D., professor emeritus of the English Bible of Vassar College and retiring president of General Synod, will preach the synodical sermon.

On Friday morning the representatives of inter-church organizations and fraternal delegates will be heard. Among those who will speak are Dr. Charles Godell of the Federation of Churches, F. R. Freeman of the Y. M. C. A., the Rev. Harry Bowlby of the Lord's Day Alliance, and the Rev. L. B. Chamberlain of the American Bible Society.

On Friday afternoon the cornerstone of the new memorial chapel of Hope College will be laid and early Friday evening there will be a banquet for the delegates in Carnegie gymnasium. The public meeting on Friday evening will be on behalf of education and one of the features of this meeting will be the delivery by Miss Harriet Heneveld of her prize oration, "Poisoned Springs," which won her the first place at the Michigan oratorical contest this year.

One of the most interesting features of the entertainment at Synod will be the pageant on Saturday evening. It will depict three periods of history, namely: 1776, 1846, 1866.

In the first episode the maid of '76 calls forth Paul Revere, the Minute Man, the Blue Coats and the Red Coats, the wildly excited mob which received the news of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

In the second episode the maid of 1846 calls forth Dr. VanRaalte and the band of Dutch with which he left Holland. There is an ox-cart scene showing the beginning of the settlement at Holland.

In the third episode there is depicted the founding and history of Hope College.

This General Synod will, no doubt, mean much to the denomination. There is a growing desire for a closer union with other denominations, especially the Reformed Church in the United States. No doubt something will be started along this line. This meeting in the west will also draw the eastern and western sections of the denomination closer together. Missions will have an important place in this Synod. The west burns with missionary fervor and, no doubt, a call will sound for an advance along all missionary lines. The reception for the delegates after the Foreign Missionary public meeting on Monday evening for the purpose of allowing the delegates an opportunity to meet the new missionaries will, no doubt, be one of the intense emotional spots of the meeting. The educational program will be given serious thought and will, no doubt, lead to a new financial program for the advancement of the educational institutions. The Reformed Church has two theological seminaries, two colleges and several academies.

The eastern delegates will arrive at Holland by a special train Thursday morning. In all there will probably be five hundred people in attendance.

PHOENIX PLAYERS IN WOODSTOCK

The executive staff of the Phoenix Players arrived in Woodstock Monday to make preparations for the second subscription season. Ben Webster, organizer of this group of professionals which met with such success last year, has been busy all winter reading plays and assembling a cast which is even superior to that of last summer. Once again he is to direct the productions at the charming theatre at Byrdcliffe, with the competent co-operation of Miss Ethel Griffies. It will be remembered that the versatile Mr. Webster not only designed settings and directed productions last year, but also remodelled the Byrdcliffe studio into the most delightful intimate playhouse in this part of the country.

With Mr. Webster are Richard S. Aldrich, William Miles and Olivia Johnson. Mr. Miles is no stranger to Phoenix audiences, and his efficient management back of the curtain was largely responsible for the smoothness which was such a marked characteristic of Phoenix performances last summer.

Richard S. Aldrich is to be business manager. During the winter months he fills the same position with Richard Boleslavsky's American Laboratory Theatre in New York. For the past two summers he has managed the Jitney Players—an itinerant troup of young artists playing through New England. Mr. Aldrich holds the position so successfully occupied last season by Stanley Howe, whose arduous duties prevent his presence in Woodstock this year.

Miss Olivia Johnson, who will act as Subscription Secretary, has had much business experience in New York managing Junior League entertainments and with "Vogue" and "Vanity Fair;" and her experience will be invaluable in this difficult position. It is hoped that Miss Johnson and Mr. Aldrich will meet with the same friendly co-operation as that accorded Mr. Howe last year.

Friends and Enemies

It is better to divide between our enemies than our friends; for one of our friends will most likely become your enemy, but on the other hand, one of your enemies will probably become your friend.—Ovid.

A man spends a third of his life wondering what he wants, a third in getting it, and a third in wondering what he's gonna do with it.

Mistress (angrily): I never heard such impudence in all my life. You have a lot of nerve to call yourself a lady's maid.

New Maid: I don't call myself that now, ma'am; but I was a lady's maid before I got this job.

"Yes, sir."

Tagging Major League Bases

The Giants scrambled to the top of the second division by nosing out the Phillies, 7 to 6, with the aid of two home runs by Kelly. Frisch was injured and had to be assisted from the field.

The Cubs collected four homers against the Cardinals, Heathcote getting two of them. The Cards also hit hard but lost out, 10 to 5, and dropped to sixth place.

The astounding Browns ripped into the Tigers again and took the final game of the series, 9 to 7. The Browns won on Gerber's single after Sisler had tied the score by stealing home.

Rain washed out all other games and double-headers are piling up like compound interest in both leagues. Four twin games will be played today.

HARRY GREB EASILY BEAT ART WEIGAND

Buffalo, N. Y., June 2.—With the exception of Harry Greb, former middleweight champion, visiting boxers fared poorly in last night's Queensbury A. C. bouts here. Greb's experience enabled him to easily defeat Art Weigand, local southpaw in a ten-round bout. Greb weighed a pound more than Weigand. Sailor Pacillo of Utica held Willie Lavin of Buffalo to a draw in the semi-final. Willie Cunningham of Buffalo knocked out Sam Mecca of Milwaukee. Willie Palmer of Lockport won over Art Fitzsimmons of Chicago, the latter being disqualified for not trying.

MISS EDERLE WILL AGAIN TRY TO SWIM CHANNEL

New York, June 2.—Balked in her efforts last year by cold and adverse tides, Gertrude Ederle, America's leading girl swimmer, sailed today on the Berengaria to take another fling at the dreaded English Channel swim. Miss Ederle has been in light training for months and expressed confidence in her ability to make the difficult crossing, her faith being augmented by the knowledge she gained of the rip tides last year. She said she would make the attempt some time in August.

Others in the race include: Clarence De Mar, National Marathon Champion; Albert Michelsen and Bill Kennedy of Cygnet A. C. of East Portchester, Conn.; Captain Morgan of the United States Army; Dwyer and Drury, two Canadians; Frank Zuna, of Newark, N. J., and Bill Agee, the 22-year-old star of Baltimore.

The marathon will start at the historic Washington Inn, Valley Forge at 12:30 p. m.

Bargain Finally Struck

The Scotsman, legend and story remind us, is rarely an impulsive fellow. Therefore, this story, though gospel, is not calculated to surprise. A certain well-known Scot, an intellectual, saw, in a bookshop, Amy Lowell's two volume life of "John Keats." He coveted it on the spot, but went away, the battle against extravagance and indulgence strong within his breast. Day after day he returned to turn the leaves and to torment his soul. In the expansive season, late one night near Christmas, he met the bookseller, haled him home, and poured a sample of very fine sherry for his midnight guest, saying no word of "Keats." Next morning early to the bookshop came the intellectual Scot. Three bottles of sherry for the precious volumes? It was his capitulation to the delights of the mind; he had held out for days. The bargain was eventually struck, although considerably more sherry was involved in the transaction.

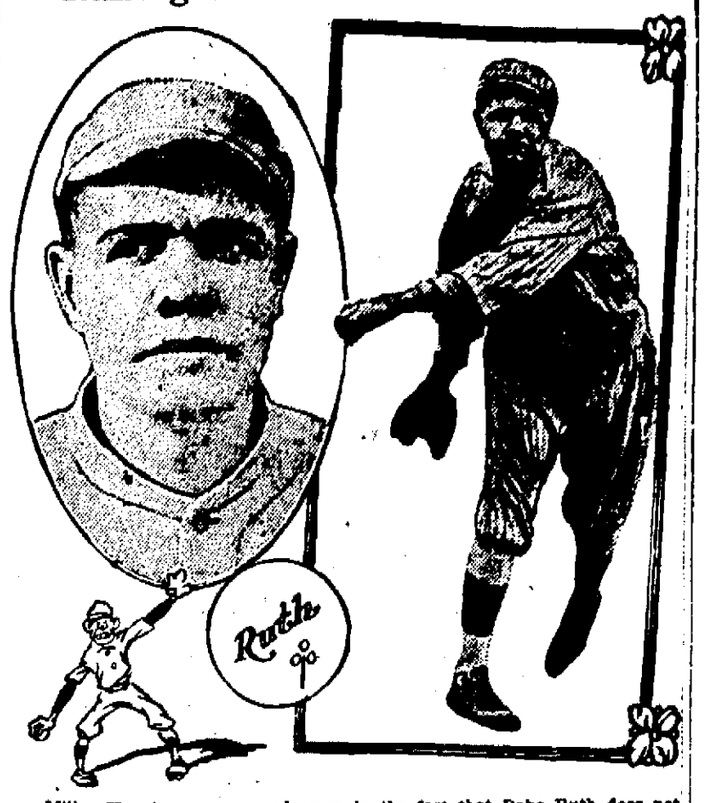
Origin of Flowers' Names

The purple fox-glove, which blooms in its greatest profusion on Irish hillsides, is so called because it is believed that the fairies use these blooms for gloves during some of their ceremonies. The rosemary, an evergreen shrub of the mint family, is a native of the Mediterranean regions, and takes its name from the Latin word, rosmarinus, which means sea-dew. This is accounted for by the fact that when this shrub is seen in massed form it looks like blue-gray mist blown over the fields from the sea. The iris comes to us from the Greek word meaning rainbow. The primrose is derived from the Latin words, prima rosa, the first rose of spring.

By a Chinese Humorist

A scholar was teaching one of his pupils arithmetic. He asked him: "What is 1 plus 1?" The scholar replied, "I don't understand." The teacher said, "You certainly are a blockhead. Let me ask you again. You are one person. Together with me how many people does that make? Do you understand now?" "Oh, yes," he replied. "How many is 2?" asked the teacher. "Two blockheads," replied the pupil.—Peking New Mandarin.

Razzing of Ruth Makes Him Grin



Miller Huggins sees a good omen in the fact that Babe Ruth does not "get sore" with the "razzing" from fans this year. In a recent game the mighty Babe failed to connect with the ball in four trips to the plate and the crowd booed him lustily. Ruth only grinned.

The Yankee pilot thinks the improvement in Ruth's disposition will be responsible for him having a good year. Ruth is in the best shape he has ever been in, Huggins declared. "If he doesn't come through this year, it will be the fault of his attitude towards the game and not because he is overweight or feeling badly."

Pitchers' Goals Set by Mathewson and Ed Plank

The records of two of baseball's greatest moundsmen, Christy Mathewson and Eddie Plank, stand out as marks for the new pitching generation to shoot at with the start of the 1926 major-league campaigns.

Each stretching over 17-year periods, the performances of these "old masters" are all the more vivid as a result of the passing of both since the close of the 1925 pennant races. Here are the main facts:

Mathewson—Pitched in 630 games, winning 372 and losing 187 for a percentage of .665, all with New York Giants. Struck out 2,297 batsmen, walked 778, allowed 4,328 hits and pitched 83 shutouts. Hurled 2 no-hit games, 1 against St. Louis, July 15, 1901, by score of 5-0, the other against Chicago, June 13, 1905, winning by 1-0. Twirled 3 shutouts against Athletics in 1905 world's series and 1 in 1913. Won 5 and lost 3 games in world series competition, 1905, 1911, 1912 and 1913.

Plank—Pitched in 625 games, winning 324 and losing 190 for a percentage of .627, including 14 years with Athletics, 2 with St. Louis Browns and 1 with St. Louis Federals. Struck out 2,272 batsmen and walked 1,081. Participated in 5 world's series, winning 2 and losing 5 games in championships of 1905, 1910, 1913 and 1914.

Mike Donlin Kept Word With Tebeau at St. Louis

Bob Quinn of the Red Sox released one of the best of the old-time stories recently in describing the type of men he wanted in rebuilding his team.

"Men like Mike Donlin—they are the kind," said Quinn. "Mike had the ideal temperament, coupled with his native ability. He had been with St. Louis only two days when Patsy Tebeau, his manager, called him to one side and informed him, briskly, 'Say, Bud, you're altogether too fresh to suit me, see?'

"Mike glared back at him challengingly. 'Oh, yeh! Well, listen, you'll have to get used to me. I'm gonna be around here a long time!'"

Famous Yacht Is Sold

The yacht Thelma, thrice flagship of the Interlake Yachting association fleet and a quarter of a century ago declared to be the finest boat of her kind in the Great Lakes section, was recently sold by Commodore W. R. Huntington of Elyria to Guy Chapman of Put-in-Bay, who will continue her in commission as a pleasure boat. The purchase price was not disclosed.

Root Making Good

Pitcher Root, secured by the Chicago Cubs from the Los Angeles team, is bound to stick in the big show, judging by his work up to date. So far this season he has been a consistent winner.

Shake hands with Peter Schuyler, Mr. Smoker

Time is the yard-stick by which in general things and people are measured.

And right there's the reason for Peter Schuyler's enormous popularity. For Peter Schuyler is a time-tested cigar. Forty-two years ago it was offered to smokers as a cigar of top-most quality. And when smokers tried it they found Peter Schuyler lived right up to their quality expectations.

That's why two generations of smokers have stood loyally by Peter Schuyler—why the most discriminating smokers of today smoke it in preference to all other brands.

Better discover for yourself why Peter Schuyler has so many loyal friends. Every fragrant puff will fill you with the enjoyable conviction that here at last is the cigar you've been looking for.

MULLEN ALSO LEASES WHITE SOX BALL PARK

Chicago, June 2.—With the announcement today that Jim Mullen, Chicago's "Tex Rickard," had negotiated a lease for the White Sox Baseball Park, indications were that the local promoter will have the boxing industry practically sewed up in these parts. Mullen signed a similar lease for Cubs Park several weeks ago. He will use the parks to stage a series of important fights, including the Phil Rosenberg-Bud Taylor bantamweight go and the Rocky Kansas-Sammy Mandel lightweight title bout. Mullen also is dickering for the Pete Latzo-Mickey Walker match.

Shade Rules Favorite.

New York, June 2.—Dave Shade's 1926 debut as a middleweight contender will be made at the Queensboro Stadium tonight, rain having caused a postponement last night of his bout with Maxie Rosenbloom. Shade ruled a strong favorite.

"Get Me Wills," Says Dempsey

At His Latest Conference With Tex Rickard at Texas—Show Down Cannot Be Postponed Longer Than a Few Days.

(By Davis J. Walsh.)

New York, June 2—Jack Dempsey, sustaining another severe slap on the ultimatum from the New York State Athletic Commission, this morning had exactly twenty days in which to meet the board's latest edict that he sign for the Wills match before June 22, and according to the writer's information, the boy doesn't need any of them. This information comes from Tex Rickard, who is suspected of knowing something about the situation.

"Get me Wills!"

This, according to Rickard's solemn oath, was Dempsey's final plea before they parted company at their Texas conference.

"Believe it or not, that is the last thing Dempsey told me," Rickard informed the writer. "I know he meant it. He convinced me that he is sincere in believing that Wills would be easier game than Tunney. Of course, he meant that I must get him assurances that the match can go on without interference and that I cannot do. However, this doesn't alter the fact that Dempsey is for the Wills fight and doesn't need any edicts from the commission."

Rickard steadfastly has declined to go on public record as to whether his choice will result upon Wills or Tunney. However, he has indicated clearly that Tunney is his man. The commission yesterday stated just as clearly that it must be Wills and none other, the gymnastic Mr. Muldoon achieving another flip-flop on the question and George E. Brower being absent.

Rickard was due to return to town this morning and the show down cannot be postponed any longer than a matter of days. His promise to the commission was to "report progress" within thirty days and the time limit has expired.

The answer? Were the writer able to penetrate the glacial coldness and see what is behind those gambler's eyes of Rickard's, he could give it to you. Only Rickard knows what will happen, although it would seem that he is confined to any one of three courses:

The promotion of a Dempsey-Wills bout, having forced the commission so far out on a limb on this question that it cannot backtrack.

A Dempsey-Tunney bout outside the state, which would not be at all pleasing to the boys in Albany.

Abandonment of the Dempsey enterprise altogether, which is highly improbable.

Whatever Rickard's decision, you can bet the rent money that it will be the right one and that, once made, he will continue business at the old stand, regardless of all the ultimatums the commission can unlimber. Rickard hasn't been wrong since Samson was given that boyish bob of his.

Last Night's Fights.

At Los Angeles—Bert Collins, of Mexico, stopped Ben Phelps, Arizona middleweight, two rounds.

At Fresno, Cal.—Joe Gans, Negro lightweight, defeated Johnny Keller, New York, 10 rounds.

Young Sam Langford stopped Joe Varona, three rounds.

At Buffalo—Harry Greb defeated Art Weigand, Buffalo middleweight, 10 rounds.

Seek Early Vote On French Debt

Washington, June 2.—Threatened by a farm bloc revolt in retaliation for the defeat of agriculture legislation, administration leaders sought an early vote today on the $4,025,000,000 French war debt.

Although no open call for support with which to defeat the agreement has been sounded by farm bloc leaders, many individuals who solidly backed the Haugen Farm Relief Bill were out in open opposition today.

"We are giving French farmers," said Representative Rainey, D., Illinois, "a $3,000,000,000 debt-remission gift while the American farmers were bluntly refused the kind of relief they sought."

Further efforts to delay a vote were being frowned upon by administration forces who expected to have the settlement approved today, and ready for transmission to the senate, where the main fight of the "payment in full" group will be staged.

Financial and Commercial

New York, June 2.—A slight trend to higher prices marked the sluggish and featureless session of the stock market today. The motor, oil and a few of the specialty stocks were churned around at fractional price changes, but no wide movements of importance were recorded. The motor stocks made the strongest display, while the oil stocks, the coppers and most of the specialties lost ground.

General Motors assumed the lead of the motor stocks and moved up to above 126 for a gain of about two points. Willys Overland led the low-priced motor stocks and carried its recovery to above 24, completing a gain of five points on the movement. Dodge, Hudson, Packard and Pierce Arrow attracted good buying at slightly higher price levels. The motor accessory stocks, including the tire stocks, made a good showing in a smaller volume of trading.

The railroad stocks, coppers and other important groups were dull and heavy. Atchison was sold and declined three points to 134 1/4.

Professional buying of Lago, International Combustion, Eaton Axle, etc., sent prices to the highest levels of the year, but had little effect on the wary outside public. Baldwin Locomotive and Pullman gained about two points each.

DEMAND DEATH PENALTY FOR SACCO AND VANZETT.

Boston, June 2.—District Attorney Winfield M. Wilbur, of the Norfolk-Plymouth district, was reported ready today to demand immediate imposition of the death penalty on Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzett, convicted of a South Braintree holdup six years ago.

The demand would be on the heels of a dynamite outrage at Bridgewater where the home of Samuel Johnson was ruined and his and the lives of his family imperilled. Johnson is a brother-in-law of the woman who was a star witness at the Sacco-Vanzett trial.

Meanwhile, homes of judges, attorneys and witnesses in the famous case were being guarded today.

Counsel for the accused men, who have repeatedly declared their innocence and whose followers disclaim any connection with various bomb outrages which have occurred since their arrest, are said to be as yet undecided whether to take the case to the United States Supreme Court.

WINNER OF BEAUTY PRIZE WAS HUNGRY

New York, June 2.—A girl who gave her name as Lorraine Taylor, of Saratoga Springs, N. Y., and declared she won a beauty contest here three years ago, walked up to Policeman Frank Elighter in Brooklyn today and told him she would kill herself unless she was given food.

After being fed and locked up as a vagrant, she told how, upon winning the beauty prize, she came to New York with a musical show, dropped from the chorus to a cabaret, then sought work in a factory and finally lost her job.

Auto Collision Case in Court

Accident at Street Intersection in This City Last October Followed by Supreme Court Suit for Damages.

John Schoenecker is suing before Judge Rosch and a jury in the Supreme court to recover for damages sustained to his Cadillac car when it was in collision with a car of Austin R. Newcombe at the corner of Fair and Pearl streets on October 27, 1925. Plaintiff was proceeding up Fair street in a northerly direction and the defendant's car was proceeding in a westerly direction over Pearl street at the time. Plaintiff contends that the defendant's car was traveling at a fast rate of speed as it entered the intersection and that at the time of the impact the Cadillac was practically at a standstill. He contends that his car was a few feet away from the intersection when the Newcombe car was 40 feet away, that he attempted to pass in front of the approaching car but that the speed was too great and he saw he could not make it, so he applied his brakes and stopped. As his car came to a stop the Newcombe car hooked in the front end of the Cadillac and dragged it across the street, causing great damage.

A lady who was a passenger in the Schoenecker car at the time, testified that the two cars approached the intersection at practically the same time. The Newcombe car, however, she said, was traveling from the right at a fast rate of speed while the plaintiff's car was going slow. Plaintiff tried to stop but reached the center of the intersection and the cars hooked together.

Frank T. Murray appears for the plaintiff and Andrew J. Cook of Van Etten & Cook appears for defendant.

Ninety-two Candles.

Wittenberg, June 2.—Mrs. Lavinia E. Hulse was given a most enjoyable party, in celebration of her ninety-second birthday on Monday, May 31, in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Orlando Short at Wittenberg, Ulster county, where she has been a member of the happy family circle for several years, Mrs. Short being her niece. The large birthday cake bearing ninety-two candles when lighted illuminated the faces of the many who were present at the feast. The occasion was all the more pleasant because of the presence of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Waldron, their daughter Bertie and granddaughter Bertie who motored from Springfield, Mass. Mrs. Waldron is a niece of Mrs. Hulse, also a daughter of the late Dr. William N. Hervey, one of the many children of the late Hon Deliverance Bell and Lucy Champion Hervey, founders of Hervey Street, Greene county, N. Y. Mrs. Hulse is the last surviving child of that family and inasmuch as she lived for nearly forty years with her late husband, James V. Hulse, in the town of Cairo, she extends her loving greeting to those of her many friends who may be living. It was her privilege to be an active worker in the Cairo Presbyterian Church for many years, where her husband was an elder and superintendent of the Sunday school. She also looks back with pleasure on the years when she taught in the Sunday schools at Sunside, Acra and also in the little South Durham school house. Mrs. Hulse is enjoying good health and spends much time reading the daily papers and also listening to the radio. Her love for religious work and the comfort it has always brought to her during days of sunshine and storm is the answer she gives when asked what keeps her so young. In fact she would refer inquirers to one of her favorite hymns, "Cast Thy Burden Upon the Lord."

$10,000 Verdict For Loss of Leg

Jury in Supreme Court Renders Large Verdict in Undefended Negligence Suit — Plaintiff Injured While Passenger in Racing Taxicab on Abeel Street.

In the Supreme court today, Ernest Williams, colored, of this city was awarded a verdict in the sum of $10,000 against Eugene Carl for injuries sustained when he was injured in an automobile accident on July 15, 1923, on Abeel street while a passenger in the Carl taxi. Williams, with three friends, had hired the Carl automobile to make a trip to Rifton. On the return trip the plaintiff testified the Carl machine was driven at a high rate of speed and that the driver refused to slow down when requested to do so by the occupants.

There was no defense entered by the defendant and the jury was out but a few minutes before returning the verdict.

According to the testimony of the plaintiff he was engaged as a laborer on construction jobs and was earning $35 a week at the time. After leaving Rifton for the trip back to Kingston, Carl, who was driving a Fiat car, drove at a rate of speed which at times was 65 miles an hour. Morris Miller, another taxi driver, had left Rifton a few minutes prior to Carl and the two were driving at a fast rate of speed. The witness testified that Carl was endeavoring to catch up to Miller and pass him on the road to demonstrate that his Fiat car was the faster of the two machines.

Several times the occupants asked that the speed be reduced but on Abeel street near John A. Fischer's place the Carl car overtook the Miller car and attempted to pass. At that time, the witness said, the Fiat was travelling 65 miles an hour and was abreast of the Morris Miller car when a Ford car came around the turn. Carl attempted to crowd Miller to the right and in so doing struck the car of Morris Miller. The car then swung to the left and struck the Ford car. The Fiat turned over several times and came to rest.

Williams was unconscious and was taken to the Kingston City Hospital and treated by Dr. A. A. Stern. It was advised that the right leg be amputated but Williams objected and asked that the leg be saved if possible. Later after being in the Kingston City Hospital for fifteen weeks and three days he left and went to Troy where he entered another hospital. Two operations were performed in an effort to save the leg but they were not successful and in January the leg was amputated.

Williams testified that he had paid for hospital and doctors' bills some $1,300 and his loss of time was about $2,700. He now has an artificial leg.

Andrew J. Cook of Van Etten & Cook appeared for the plaintiff.

VOCATIONAL TRAINING SCHOOLS END JUNE 30

Washington, June 2.—Unless congress enacts eleventh-hour legislation recommended by Director Frank T. Hines of the Veterans' Bureau, many veterans of the World War will be unable to complete vocational training, it was learned today.

About 6,600 ex-soldiers are now in vocational training schools. A majority will not be able to graduate by June 30 when under the present law training must end.

More than 111,580 soldiers have been given government diplomas for successful completion of a wide range of courses, obtaining law and medical degrees, certificates of proficiency in the mechanical trades, art and letters.

By June 30 vocational training will have cost the government approximately $645,000,000, the average cost of training the successful graduate having been $6,000.

FIGHT FOR CONTROL OF LIBERAL PARTY.

London, June 2.—Lloyd George and Lord Oxford are at grips in a struggle for control of the Liberal party. The result appears likely to be a split in the party with each leader at the head of a small group.

Lord Oxford has published a letter which declares that he can no longer cooperate with Lloyd George because of the former Premier's refusal to attend a meeting of the "Shadow Cabinet" during the general strike and because of the attitude of the Welshman during the strike.

Lloyd George has summoned a meeting of the parliamentary Liberal party for tomorrow to consider the situation. It seems probable that this meeting may censure Lord Oxford for his publication of correspondence relative to Lloyd George and if it takes such action, there would seem to be no course open to Lord Oxford but to resign the leadership of the party.

New Bus Line For Kingston

Oneonta and Delhi Soon to Be Connected With This City by Busses—New Line Being Planned Between Kingston and Albany.

The Chamber of Commerce announces that the transportation needs of Kingston are to be further cared for by the institution of a bus line service between this city, Oneonta and Delhi.

This service has been put on by O. J. Buck of Harpersfield, who for twelve years has maintained bus service between Oneonta and Stamford. Glenn H. Green will be associated with him. Mr. Green has had much experience in this line of work in the vicinity of Delhi.

The busses used will be of the latest output of the Studebaker Company and will seat twenty passengers.

The Kingston terminal will be at the West Shore Bus Terminal on Railroad avenue. They leave Kingston at 2:25 p. m. daylight saving time, and will stop at The Governor Clinton Hotel about five minutes later. At Margaretville connection can be made with the Delhi bus line. The leaving time from Oneonta will be 7 a. m., daylight saving time, and the busses will be due in Kingston at 11.25 a. m.

This line will not carry passengers for points between Kingston and Arkville as this would conflict with the franchise now held by Merrihew Brothers.

It is understood that within a few days a bus line will be started between The Governor Clinton Hotel and the Ten Eyck Hotel at Albany.

Beasts That Blunder

People are always talking of the brains of beasts and birds. Yet instinct often errs. You would certainly think that instinct would warn an animal against poison. Yet many horses and cattle are killed by eating yew, saffron, and other plants, while in America the loco-weed is even more harmful.—London Mail.

Dempsey Coming To New York

Chicago, June 2.—Jack Dempsey, world's heavyweight champion, who has been ill at Hot Springs, Ark., will arrive in Chicago today and leave immediately for New York, it was learned this morning.

The champion has engaged a state room on the Twentieth Century Limited for New York, where, it was expected, he would confer again with Tex Rickard, New York promoter, regarding either a Dempsey-Wills or Dempsey-Tunney bout.

Dempsey was reported as fully recovered from a carbuncle on his left arm, which caused his illness last week at Hot Springs.

Racing Program For Saturday

Entire Program Scheduled for Memorial Day Will be Run Off at Riding Club Track—Monday's Rain Insufficient for Club to Collect Rain Insurance.

Although rain prevented the races at the Ulster County Riding and Driving Club park on Monday afternoon, the rain which fell was not sufficient to keep away a very considerable crowd of people. During the afternoon 450 motor cars passed through the gate and were parked on the grounds and the occupants were given an opportunity to look around and inspect the grounds which have been recently placed in first class condition. No admission charge was sought at the gates from those who entered as the management was positive that the weather would not permit the race program being put on.

Rain which fell during the night and morning kept the grounds in poor condition but shortly after the rain ceased the track was in condition to use. However, the rain did not stop sufficiently early to put on the races and the other portion of the program and it was deemed advisable to postpone the events until Saturdaay afternoon at 2 o'clock, when the entire program will be run off.

The drizzle of rain which fell, while it prevented the races being put on, was not of sufficient amount to be recognized by the insurance company which held the rain insurance. Less than half the amount of rain fall necessary to put the policy into effect fell during the required hours prior to the races.

Woodstock Buys New Road Roller

At the June meeting of the town board of Woodstock held on Tuesday, it was decided to purchase a new ten-ton Huber gas roller and the order for same was placed with the Universal Road Machinery Company of this city who are selling agents for the Huber products along the Hudson valley.

This is the same size roller that was sold to the town of Fishkill last year and which has given such good service that it was an important factor in placing the order for one in this county.

The local company has sold during the past week a 12x24 crusher to M. C. Tryon, state road contractor who built the Woodstock-Willow road and who now has a large contract in Saratoga county. They also sold a complete 10x18 portable plant to the C. F. Seabrooke Company who are building a new road in Warren county.

Other shipments include a 12x24 crusher for the state highway department of New Hampshire and a special screen for the Lutsville Sand and Gravel Company of Milligeville, Ill.

Good Name

The farmer stood and watched the artist at work upon a landscape. "What are you going to call that picture?" inquired the farmer at length. "I was thinking," said the artist, "of calling it 'Harmony.'" "Do you like that name?" The farmer considered before he returned, "Yes, I like the name all right, but why waste it?"

This Boy Has The Wanderlust

Frank Washburn, 11 year old inmate of the Industrial Home, is evidently afflicted with that disease known as the wanderlust. Last Friday he ran away from the institution and spent the night in the woods off East Chester street, but was found Saturday on Hemlock avenue, and returned to the home. Tuesday morning the boy was sent to School No. 5, but instead of attending school helped himself to a playmate's skooter and disappeared. The boy's absence was reported to the police department and a general alarm has been sent out for him.

Coronach Wins British Derby

Epsom Downs, England, June 2.—Lord Woolavington's "Coronach" won the derby today.

"Lancegaye," an outsider, finished second and Lord Derby's "Colorado," the hot favorite, came in third.

Lord Astor's "Swift and Sure" finished fourth.

"Coronach" during the morning betting was third favorite, being quoted at 7 to 1.

The race was over a mile and a half and the actual stakes were $15,000, but the winner also participated approximately $40,000 paid in in forfeits.

It is estimated that at least fifty million dollars changed hands on the result, which was a considerable victory for the book-makers as the bulk of the money was down on "Colorado" to win.

Inks That Last

Through the use of the gas-heated cauldron it is believed the long lost art of the ancients in making ink that grew darker with the years instead of fading, has been rediscovered. The new process retains the color and will not corrode. The old inks, which are still bright and clear after hundreds of years, were made of various plant juices.

Special Train For Convention

Firemen Secure Special Train Over O. & W. Railroad to Attend Firemen's Convention at Port Jervis.

The convention of the Hudson Valley Volunteer Firemen's Association at Port Jervis next week will be one of the biggest conventions ever held in the Hudson Valley. There will be 60 companies in line on Thursday afternoon, the day of the big parade, and 40 bands and drum corps.

Tuesday the convention opens for business with the regular routine matters. On Wednesday there will be election of officers and on Thursday will be the big parade.

Three of the local companies will be in line, Rapid Hose Company with 75 men in uniform and the Citizens' Band of 25 pieces, Cordts Hose Company with 70 men in line and the J. O. U. A. M. Band of 30 pieces, and Excelsior Hose Company of 100 men and the Troy Salvation Army Staff Band of 40 pieces. In addition to the three local companies who will go to Port Jervis by special train over the Ontario & Western railroad, there will be four other companies which will board the train at Kingston and two more at Ellenville.

The Eddyville volunteer department and the Port Ewen with 25 men each will board the train here. Rhinecliff will have 50 men in line and a band of 25 pieces. Saugerties Hook & Ladder Company will have 75 men in line and a drum corps of 25 pieces. All of these companies will board the special train here and Scorsby and Kemble Hose companies of Ellenville will join the ranks at Ellenville with about 50 men in each company and a band of 25 pieces.

The special train which will leave the Fair street station over the O. & W. Railroad at 7:30 a. m., eastern standard time on June 10, will convey some 800 firemen and their bands to the convention city. In addition to that number it is expected that there will be several hundred more friends and visitors who will take advantage of the low fare to Port Jervis. The public is invited to use the train and tickets may be procured from members of the companies or at the station on the morning of departure.

The train will leave eastern standard time from Kingston at 7:30; Hurley at 7:35; Cottekill at 7:46; High Falls at 7:52; Kyserike at 8; Accord at 8:08; Kerhonkson at 8:17; Wawarsing at 8:25; Napanoch at 8:29; and Ellenville at 8:37. Stops will also be made at points beyond Ellenville and the train will arrive at Port Jervis at 9:50 o'clock. The time of departure from Port Jervis will be 6 p. m. eastern standard time. The fare will be less than half the regular fare.

Refreshments will be served on the train by the firemen, consisting of soda water and sandwiches.

This is the first time in years that the firemen have secured a special train to attend a firemen's convention and the local firemen hope that a goodly number of their friends will take advantage of the opportunity.

Weak Milk on Sabbath

English milk users find that the milk they get on Sunday is not as rich as the milk delivered on other days.

An investigation was conducted by health authorities and it was found that adulteration occurs more frequently on Sunday than on any other day.

The investigators were led to believe that the sale of milk must be greater on this day than on any other day of the week and dairymen are tempted to increase the supply by adding water.

The moral to this may be: Don't drink milk on Sunday or adulterate the milk on week days so you'll not notice the low quality of Sunday milk.

Errors of Stethoscope

The stethoscope, most familiar of all the doctors' devices used in diagnosis, was attacked recently by Dr. Otto May in an address to the Insurance Medical society.

"Conclusive," he said, "the enormous number of perfectly good lives rejected for insurance, and, what is worse, made unhappy and invalided by the discovery of a perfectly harmless murmur.

"Conclusive also the number of thoroughly bad lives accepted as a result of the examiner's reliance on the acceptance of the stethoscope as the practical arbiter of the heart's condition."

The fellow who knows it all would stand a better chance if he would forget part of it.

"Drys" Now Look To Senator Borah

Idaho Senator Has Parted Company With Republican Leadership of the East and Has Endeared Himself To Church Organizations and Their Allies.

Washington, June 2.—The prohibition controversy bowled merrily along at the Capitol today, wiping out party lines, destroying some political alignments, and setting up new ones to take their places.

Whether by accident or design, Senator William E. Borah, Republican, of Idaho, has had the dry leadership of this congress thrust upon him by his militant assault on the present policy of the wet leadership, which aims at a dozen wet and dry referendums in this year's elections, and his staunch defense of prohibition "as is." It is to Borah now that the drys are looking for leadership.

The Idaho senator has definitely parted company with the Republican leadership of the East, as represented by Senator Wadsworth in New York, Senator Edge in New Jersey, and the Republican coalition in Pennsylvania as represented by the Vare-Mellon forces. The significance of this division and what it may portend in 1928 constituted the most blazing political topic today that Washington has had in months.

Accused by both Republican and Democratic wets of seeking the presidency in 1928 on a dry issue, Borah remained uncommunicative today.

"I may have a reply in a day or two," he said, "but I will make it on the floor of the senate, and engage in no war of statements.

"However, if the country is really wet, as the wets say, why should any man try to run for the presidency on a dry platform? For the time being we will let it go at that."

Irrespective of Borah's ultimate political objective, the fact was patent and much commented upon today that the Idahoan has suddenly endeared himself to those elements which hitherto have opposed him bitterly, namely, the church organizations and their allies. They opposed him in the League of Nations fight, in the World Court fight, and in the controversy over Japanese exclusion. Now, under the stimulus of his militant advocacy of prohibition, they are rallying to his support.

Borah plans to "make several speeches" during the forthcoming campaign against the proposed modification of the Volstead Law. He has accepted no dates yet, but he will, and among them will be New York, where Senator Wadsworth is running for re-election.

Some of the most ardent Prohibitionists in the Senate do not look with particular favor upon the idea of carrying the controversy to the country from the political platform. They believe the issue can best be met with a policy of silence.

"The prohibition issue, save for two or three large western cities, is exclusively the affair of the North Atlantic States," said Sheppard. "Out west the people know it has been settled, and that it is here to stay.

"At the utmost, the wets in their referendums could carry but ten states, not even a fourth of all the states, and it would require three-fourths of all the states to change the Eighteenth Amendment.

"We drys hold the fort. There is no need for us to assume the offensive. All we have to do is to resist the small minority that is clamoring for modification. If anything the dry law should, and will, be strengthened.

"In this situation what's the use of fighting when there's nothing to fight for?"

Sheppard conceded that the wets "might" carry New York, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Massachusetts, New Jersey, Rhode Island and Wisconsin. He would give them no more.

"And this minority," he concluded, "can never impose its will on the rest of us."

Meanwhile, it became increasingly evident today that President Coolidge's executive order, permitting the enlistment of state and county officers as federal prohibition agents, is to all intents and purposes a dead letter. Concerned over the national furor created by the order, the Prohibition Bureau is making no efforts to enlist constables, and it was admitted today that the only two applications thus far received have been returned.

Ulster Park's New Pleasure Resort

Riverlake Golf and Country Club, Located on River Road Between Port Ewen and Ulster Park—Property Being Developed by L. H. Gruber.

A new development is being made on the one hundred and thirty-five acres located on the River road, about midway between Port Ewen and Ulster Park, which has been named the Riverlake Golf and Country Club. The property was purchased about eight months ago by L. H. Gruber, who has associated with him in the enterprise George R. Rock, formerly with the New York Times.

There are a number of bungalows located on the property as well as a large club house which faces the Hudson river. The property lies between the Hudson river and Lake Esopus, and is ideally located for a pleasure resort. There is also on the property a dancing pavilion and gymnasium.

The bungalows or lodges scattered about the property are completely furnished and equipped with water, electricity and other conveniences.

Mr. Gruber is planning to maintain the property as an all year pleasure resort. There are a number of tennis and hand ball courts on the grounds, and Mr. Gruber is contemplating laying out an eighteen hole golf course.

Access to the resort at present is from the River road leading through Port Ewen and about midway between that village and Ulster Park.

CIRCUS MANAGER CHARGED WITH SHOOTING NEGRO

Buffalo, N. Y., June 2.—Charles Daniel Odom, of Peru, Ind., general manager of the Hagenback Wallace circus, is being held by the local police today on open charges following the shooting of James Warren, a negro, yesterday. Warren is dying in a hospital.

Warren was shot by Odom, according to police, following an argument over a game of dice. The shooting occurred behind the main tent just before the evening performance started, causing confusion among the spectators. Police reserves were rushed to the scene to restore peace.

Odom was arrested when he was found in a circus car. The revolver said to have been used in the shooting was also found. Odom surrendered only after detectives threatened to force the door of the railroad car. Odom refused to make a statement. Police say that Warren identified Odom as his assailant.
